Haslett, T.D., Monaghan; George A. Knight, Clones; James F. Armstrong, Kells; J. H. Roche, Sligo; T. A. Leahy, Mallow, and Ireton Jones, Dublin.

The following were elected to membership—Philip A. McArdle, 25 Bridge street, Dundalk, and Frank Towers (Towers and Co.), 11 Lower Abbey street, Dublin.

Members were selected to act in conjunction with the President for settlement of any disputes that may arise between members.

AUCTIONEERS BILL

Mr. Haslett, T.D., Monaghan, informed the Council as to the present position of the Auctioneers Bill in the Dail, which was considered satisfactory. The Council expressed their appreciation of his interest and great assistance.

Arrangements are being made for the publication of next year's Diary. Suggestions from members for improvements or for alterations in the form thereof and newspaper cuttings on matters of interest affecting the Association, would be gladly welcomed by the Secretary. The Council looks forward to the co-operation of the members to make this publication a success.

Other matters discussed were:—Income tax allowance on members' subscriptions, replies from Land Commission, Valuation Department, Estate Duty Office, County Registrars re valuations, auctioneers' liability to bill-posters in case of accidents while posting their notices of sales.

GROCERY TRADE WORKERS' MEETING

SUPPORT FOR SHOPS HOURS BILL

Addressing a mass meeting of the grocery trade workers at the Rotunda Picture House, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. Michael Drumgoole (general secretary, Irish Union of Distributive Workers and Clerks) said that the new Shops Hours Bill probably would be introduced by the Government before the end of the present session, and it was hoped that it would become law before Christmas.

The Irish Trade Union Congress memorandum on the subject of shops' hours and conditions was in the hands of the Minister concerned. He asked the assistants in the grocery trade to organise in order to be in a position to have a voice in the sending forward of amendments and in seeing that when the Act was in being it would be enforced. At present many assistants were working from sixty to eighty hours per week.

Mr. J. W. Kelly urged the assistants to organise for improved wages, hours and conditions. He said that one of the biggest menaces in the trade was the employer who compelled his workers to stay on after the shop doors were closed.

Mr. W. Rolley said that non-unionism would not be tolerated in the trade.

Miss H. Moloney (Dublin Trades Union Council) and Mr. S. Murphy also spoke.

Mr. E. Moran presided.

DUBLIN'S HOTTEST DAY

78 IN THE SHADE ON SATURDAY

"Last Saturday's temperature in the shade—78 degrees—was the highest recorded this year in Dublin," said an authority at Rathfarnham Castle to an Irish Times reporter last night.

"To-day we recorded 67 degrees in the shade, which might seem rather low, but is easily explained. The sun did not appear until about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and was before that obscured by a very deep bank of clouds, which had lasted from Saturday night's tract of low pressure.

"This bank was not dissolved by the sun until about 3 p.m., but when the sun did come out it shone continuously until about 9.15 p.m.—for 6.4 hours. This explains why our temperature was lower than that recorded in some parts of England to-day."

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year in London. At 3 p.m. the shade temperature reached 85 degrees, two degrees above Saturday's highest figure. The highest temperature previously recorded this year was 83.5 degrees, on June 24.

The Air Ministry experts expect much cooler weather to-day.

Generally speaking, however, the fine spell will continue for a few days longer, at least. There will, perhaps, be thunderstorms in the North, and there is just the possibility that rain may interfere with the Test match at Leeds. But this is merely an outside chance.

IRISH SOCIETY'S VISITATION

The Honourable Irish Society's annual Visitation arrived in Londonderry from London on Saturday night. Yesterday morning, Alderman Sir Charles A. Batho, Governor of the Society, read the Scripture lessons in Derry Cathedral. At the Morning Service, which was attended by members of the Visitation, the Dean of Derry, the Very Rev. R. G. S. King, M.A., was the preacher. In the afternoon the Visitation inspected Londonderry Methodist City Mission's Hostel at Barrack street, and went for a motor drive to Downhill, Co. Londonderry, stopping at Dogleap Farm, Limavady, for tea on the invitation of Captain W. A. and Mrs. Lane and Miss Robertson.

MOUNT MERRION FETE

OPENED BY LORD MAYOR

Opening a fête at Mount Merrion Park, Co. Dublin, on Saturday, organised in aid of the erection of an oratory and schools for the increasing population in the area, the Lord Mayor of Dublin (Alderman A. Byrne, T.D.) said that the development of housing accommodation at Mount Merrion had surprised many people in recent years, and would probably prove more surprisingly successful in the future.

Proposing a vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor for his attendance, Mr. Frank Fahy, Speaker of the Dail, said that occasionally they heard disgruntled people in this country complaining about the money spent on the building of churches and schools. Those complaints did not represent the views of the Irish people generally.

Mr. Fahy added that although he and the Lord Mayor differed on some questions, yet he and the people generally recognised that Alderman Byrne filled the position with exceptional dignity and capability, and that when there was a question of assisting any religious or charitable object he always did his part.

The fête was continued yesterday, and was largely patronised.

VISITORS FROM AMERICA

SENATOR'S HONEYMOON TRIP

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

COVE, Sunday.

The Cunard-White Star liner, Scythia, arrived here this morning from New York and Boston and landed 287 passengers, including Senator and Mrs. Frank Hurley, of Boston, who have crossed to spend their honeymoon with Mrs. Hurley's parents in Dublin. They were married by the Rev. M. Earle, S.J., Holy Cross College, Worcester, a cousin of the bride, in Boston on the morning of embarkation. Mrs. Hurley, whose father, Mr. Thomas Earle, is an official of the Irish Land Commission, has been resident in Boston for eight years. Others to land here were the Right Rev. Monsignor Connolly, a native of Galway; the Right Rev. Monsignor Downey, of St. Louis, Missouri, who is visiting his native Cork; the Rev. Dr. Laverty, making his annual visit to Ireland, and the Rev. James Corrigan, S.J.

The Cunard-White Star motor vessel, Britannia, arrived here this morning and also embarked 72 passengers, and a consignment of bacon from Tralee. The United States Lines steamer, American Importer, from New York, landed 37 passengers this afternoon.

COWS FOR MEAT FACTORY

DEPARTMENT AS BUYERS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Saturday.

At Cork County Committee of Agriculture to-day, Mr. T. O'Sullivan presiding, a letter was received from the Department of Agriculture, in which a scheme was outlined for the purchase by the Department of old and uneconomic cows for Roscrea Meat Factory. Officers of the Department, it was stated, would attend at various centres at specified times, and a flat rate of £2 10s. per cow would be paid. The scheme would apply to County Kerry, and to that portion of County Cork comprised in Berehaven Peninsula. Other areas would afterwards be taken up in rotation.

BOLTS ON RAILWAY LINE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

MULLINGAR, Saturday.

At Mullingar District Court, before Justice Beatty, two Mullingar boys, aged between 14 and 15, were charged with placing an obstruction between the rails, thereby endangering the safety of passing trains.

James Dalton, ganger, said that he saw a bolt stuck down in the expansion between the rails. It was securely wedged. Some distance on he found two others similarly wedged. The bolts were flattened down by passing trains. Witness had to go home for tools to take them out.

Thomas Duignan, Inspector, said that if a fast light carriage passed over the bolts there might be a danger of it being derailed.

Sergeant Coady read statements made and signed by the defendants, in which they admitted putting the bolts on the line to see if the train would flatten them.

The Justice adjourned the case for three months, and warned the boys that if in the meantime they were found walking on the railway line he would send them to an industrial school.

FISHERIES' COMMISSION

At a meeting of the Cashen fishermen and of the rod anglers of the Feale, held at the Listowel Arms Hotel, Mr. John Macaulay, Ballygrennan, presiding, a resolution, proposed by Mr. Edward Browne, seconded by Mr. Thomas Costello, was unanimously adopted, protesting against the findings of the Fisheries' Commission being seriously entertained by An Dail, or being made effective by legislation, "because of the generally confiscatory nature of the suggestions and because of the hardship which their adoption would entail on all concerned."

GOLF

J. BUSSON BEATS R. A. WHITCOMBE

A BRILLIANT FINAL GOES TO THE 20TH

J. J. Busson, of Pannal, one of Britain's new Ryder Cup players, beat Reginald Whitcombe, of Parkstone, at the twentieth hole at Malden, Surrey, on Saturday.

Whitcombe, winner of the Roehampton tournament, which is also decided by match-play, was the favourite, although he has not been chosen for the Ryder Cup, and for a time he led. He was one up at the turn, and two up at the twelfth, but Busson produced a remarkable streak of brilliant putting to turn what looked like defeat into a great win.

The Yorkshireman holed a putt of four yards to win the fifteenth hole, squared the match with an eight yards putt for a 3 at the 16th, and saved himself at the 17th by holing out from seven yards.

The round ended level, and after Busson had been robbed by a stymie of a win at the 19th, he won the match at the 20th, where Whitcombe was over the green, and then stymied.

Busson was round in 67, against 68.

Earlier in the day Busson beat W. J. Cox, the Ryder Cup assistant, by one hole, and Whitcombe had defeated E. Kenyon by 3 and 1.

ODDS-ON CHANCES FAIL

SURPRISES IN IRISH DERBY HEATS

The three opening heats of the Irish Greyhound Derby were decided at Shelbourne Park on Saturday night, and in two of them odds-on favourite were beaten. Brave Ryland won the first heat from The Violets, with the much fancied April Dandy a poor third. Negro's Equal was regarded as a good thing for the third heat, but was beaten half a length in a very close finish by Lisnagree. The Cork dog, Ocean Gallant, justified favouritism by winning the second heat, a strong burst in the straight giving him the victory by two lengths. Details:—

GAELIC GAMES

LOUTH'S DOUBLE AT CROKE PARK

LEINSTER SEMI-FINAL WON BY ONE POINT

(By PAT'O.)

LOUTH .... 1-6 MEATH 1-5

When the teams were level at 1-5 each with the last minutes running out Callan, of Louth, passed a fast ball to Curran on the 50 mark. Steadying himself, the Erin's Own player drop-kicked the decisive point.

It was a tremendous struggle between fit teams in the semi-final of the Leinster senior football championship for the right to meet Kildare in the final. The Croke Park ground played fast and true. Meath put up a great battle. They were better at mid-field, where Loughran was a tower of strength in a gruelling match.

Both sets of forwards missed many chances early on as the tackling was close and earnest. A draw might have been a fitter result, for Meath's kicks were longer, whilst Louth's forwards, when they settled down, were directing their shots to better purpose. The final with Kildare is fixed for Croke Park on July 28th.

LOUTH'S EARLY LEAD

Caffrey, for Louth, was first to break through. McGuinness saved, but Carton turned in sharply from Louth's right, and Moore burst through for the opening point. Donnelly was prominent for Meath, and was almost through when Boyle saved. Then Louth had a grand passing movement in which all the front line handled before McGuinness saved. Caffrey's free reached McShane, and Brown saved, but Moore raced in and netted—Louth 1-1, Meath nil.

Meath recovered quickly. Their handling and kicking were very secure, and Dowling opened their score with a point. Wide shooting at either end followed before Meath worked up through Loughran and Donnelly, who swung a perfect centre, which Gilsenan reached and goaled, setting the teams level.

When Donnelly put Meath ahead the pace was very fast. Within five minutes Curran's free reached Caffrey, who pointed for Louth and levelled. The Louth forwards finished the period brilliantly. Clusky had a good point from the left, and Carton placed Caffrey to shoot high for their fourth minor. Half-time—Louth 1-4, Meath 1-2.

It was thought that the strenuous game in the broiling sun would have slowed up the players, but they continued to race fast in pairs to every ball. A great shot of Caffrey's was well brought down by Brown in Meath's goal, and Dowling accepting the clearance sent Rogers away for Meath to screw kick a point from far out.

CURRAN'S DECISIVE SCORE

Then Louth staged a strong attack. Meath's backs, led by McGuinness, saved twice before Curran received near the 40 mark and put Louth 2 points up. Edward Meade, at centre half, shone for Meath and Donnelly passed to Rogers to make the score 1-5 to 1-4.

Football of real championship quality followed, without a shade between the teams. Meath attacked fiercely through Callan and Clusky; Boyle and Kelly were busy defending, when, from a free, Geraghty sent a great point through to put the teams level for the third time.

Coyle and Loughran continued to have close duels for possession of high balls. Clusky, on Louth's left wing, got in a lot of skilful work near the stands, serving his front line with long passes. When well placed Martin was just wide for Louth. Both ends were visited before the finish, but backs beat forwards. Referee Robbins was playing broken time, when Callan tapped a ball to Curran, who swung clear before drop-kicking from long range. The ball held its course truly for the best score of the match.

LOUTH .... 1-7 DUBLIN 1-6

In the minor football (Leinster final) Louth were smarter away with two points. Dublin balanced, and the teams were level at half-time with four points each. Dublin were struggling for winning goals in the second half. There was never more than a score between them. They were level with three minutes to go when McEntee got the winning point for Louth.

KILKENNY...... 2-10 MEATH............. 2-4

Meath, in the junior hurling, surprised even their own supporters when playing well against Kilkenny's better-known hurlers. Meath led at half-time by 1-2 to 0-4, and went further ahead in the third quarter. The game was far advanced before Kilkenny's neater hitting told. Two quick goals put them on level terms, and rapid points qualified them for the Leinster junior final.

LEIX RECOVER AND BEAT DUBLIN IN RE-PLAY

The replay of the senior hurling semi-final between Dublin and Leix, at Birr, yesterday, resulted in a thrilling match, which Leix won by 14 points to 12.

Dublin led off with a goal (Tumpane). Points followed for Dublin through Wade, Tobin and Treacy. Bergin, of Leix, passed to Nugent, who scored a fine goal, and Hopper followed with a point from a free. At half time Dublin led by seven points to four.

Dublin re-opened with a goal from Tumpane, but Leix had also a major per Farrell. Dublin replied with a point (Treacy) and Nugent notched a goal for Leix. Hopper then scored a point from a free, to equalise the score. Leix had points by Hennessy and Farrell.

The game finished at a furious pace, both sides giving an excellent display. In the last minutes W. Delaney scored a point for Leix, and the final scores were:—Leix, 3-5 (14 points); Dublin, 2-6 (12 points).

In the junior football re-play, Offaly beat Dublin by 2-3 to 0-2.

Financial News & Notes

LONDON STOCK MARKET FEATURES

A FIRM FRONT

THE INVESTOR'S PROBLEM

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Sunday.

Considering the effect of the holiday season in curtailing the volume of business and the fact that profit-taking has been recently indulged in on a considerable scale, it must be admitted that the Stock markets are presenting a very firm front. It is evident that the leading gilt-edged securities have been helped by a resumption of purchases by banks and other important institutions, and such operations have had the more effect because of the recent reduction in the speculative position. The firmness of British Government and similar stocks is the more noteworthy in view of the new loans that are expected soon, particularly the conversion operation relating to New South Wales stock and the raising of a large amount for London railway electrification. It is to be noted that new borrowers can still finance their requirements on very favourable terms.

ITALIAN SEVENS

The serious implications of the Abyssinian question are generally recognised, but the adverse effect so far has been almost restricted to Italian Government Bonds, which have given way rather sharply. Of the two 7 per cent. issues quoted in London, one is repayable in 1937, and, as the outstanding amount is only £129,200, there can be little doubt that the obligation will be met. These bonds are quoted about 95, but changed hands last week at 92½, thus indicating a return of over 7½ per cent. The other issue, the amount of which is £827,200, is repayable in 1947, and this is quoted about 87, with business recently at under 85. At 87 the flat yield is 8 per cent., while, if allowance is made for redemption twelve years hence, the return is considerably more. If Italy became involved in a lengthy military campaign in Abyssinia, the prospect is that its economic situation would suffer, but it is almost inconceivable that these 7 per cent. loans will not be met at maturity. Political fears have had some weakening effect upon other European Government stocks.

GOLD MINING SHARES

Much quieter conditions now obtain in the market for Transvaal Gold and Finance shares. This is to be attributed in part to the more interesting movements in Industrials and the measure of disappointment created by the last dividend announcements. The market is no longer supported by purchases for trust companies, and for some time past any demand on public account has been almost restricted to participation in the new issues, particularly Palmietkuil, Marievale Consolidated and Rietfontein No. 11. In these cases, the buying must be classed as speculative, for the value of the propositions has yet to be proved. Buying of an investment character is probably checked by the fact that the yields obtainable are not very large if proper allowance is made for the termination of the life of a mine, because this should mean an investment of part of the annual dividends to form a kind of sinking fund. It may be, too, that some people hesitate to buy because of the greater attention now given to the need for currency stabilisation, though it does not follow that if this came about the sterling price of gold would rule materially below the present figure. Some people believe that a much higher price would be reached.

INDUSTRIALS

No significance is to be attached to the recent reaction in Industrial Ordinary shares, and, considering the extent of the previous advance, a more substantial fall would not have been very surprising. This section has seen an almost steady appreciation in market values during the last year or two, a movement which, to a considerable extent, has been fully justified by the great improvement in the country's trade during that period. The appreciation was mainly the result of investment buying, but it was accelerated by purely speculative operations, and few will deny that when prices reached the peak the future was well discounted. Broadly speaking, the results of industrial undertakings announced in recent months have equalled expectations, but there have been one or two disappointments. The optimists had expected an increased dividend by the Distillers Co., though that result could scarcely be described as disappointing, seeing that the profits were larger and the financial position, already exceptionally good, was further strengthened.

COURTAULDS

The Amalgamated Anthracite Preference dividend postponement was rather exceptional, for it was largely due to the mild winter. As regards Courtaulds, the bulls had pitched their expectations unduly high, and, while making the most of the increase in rayon production and the generally favourable industrial conditions in this country, they had been inclined to ignore the fact that Courtaulds has very important connections abroad, and must be affected by unfavourable economic conditions in America and Europe. Consequently, the warning of the directors that the increased interim dividend should not be regarded as pointing to a bigger distribution for the whole of this year was followed by a rather sharp fall in the shares. It is to be expected that there will be a recovery in due course, but unless the dividend is increased for the whole of 1935 present purchasers of the shares will obtain a very moderate return on their money.

THE PROBLEM OF THE INVESTOR

In these days the satisfactory investment of money is a somewhat difficult problem. Safety can be assured by a purchase of British Government or other trustee securities, but these will probably involve some loss of capital with the advent of dear or dearer money. Foreign Government Bonds, broadly speaking, do not appeal to the average investor, for, while European issues are under the cloud of threatened political complications, most of the South American Republics are in default. A good many railway stocks offer possibilities, but it seems impossible to work up any real interest in the home railway section, though the well-secured preference and debenture issues move with gilt-edged stocks. Argentine railway preferences only appeal to the speculative investor, and a purchase of the ordinary stocks must be regarded as a gamble. Industrial ordinary shares may reach a still higher level, but obviously they are much less attractive than when prices were lower. In many cases the return from the last annual dividends is quite moderate, and it is not certain that in the majority of cases current prices will be justified by bigger distributions in the future. Circumstances affecting gold mining issues are referred to above, while, so far, rubbers have been rather disappointing, and there is apparently little inducement to buy oil shares.

RUBBER SHARES.

Those who study the various circumstances bearing upon the matter consider that rubber shares will see higher prices in the future. The course of the commodity itself has been a little disappointing lately, but a good many undertakings have increased their dividends, and some have resumed payments after a long interval. In considering a purchase of the shares an important point to be kept in mind is the probable manner in which a company will fare under restriction of output. If its assessment is well above the last annual production the company should do well, other things being equal, and it may be useful to indicate some companies that have good prospects in this respect.

Among these is the Ayer Kuning, whose crop for the last financial year was nearly 284,000lb. below its assessment of 1,351,100lb. In the case of the Dusun Durian the favourable difference was fully 339,000lb. and of the F.M.S. Planters the figure was nearly 639,000lb.

OTHER EXAMPLES

A company with a particularly promising position as regards assessment and output is the K.M.S., whose assessment is 1,413,952lb., but whose output for the last financial year was 462,000lb. below that figure. The similar difference in the case of the Labu is 573,000lb., and of Lambak about 284,000lb. The Pataling Co. is also favourably placed, for the last annual production was 856,000lb. below the assessment figure of 3,427,817lb., this company being one of the very big producers.

The favourable difference mentioned means that when restriction is applied the companies referred to will suffer less than those which have kept their outputs at nearer the assessment figure. All the above companies have part of their acreage bud-grafted—another important consideration, this feature being particularly noticeable in the case of Labu.

IRISH FAIR

Kells.—At Ceanannus Mor (Kells) June Fair supplies were below the average for this particular fair. Trade, however, especially for stores in forward condition, was brisk, and a large number of cattle changed hands, the prices showing an upward tendency compared with recent rates. Beef cattle realised about 22/- per cwt., pollies £9 to £12 10/- each; two-year-old stores, £7 to £9 each; yearlings £5 10/- to £6 10/- each. The sheep and lamb fair was rather disappointing, and trade was rather quiet. Some lambs were sold at prices ranging from 16/- to 26/- each. The horse fair was very small, and the demand was good, especially for working horses. Prices varied considerably, the average price being from £25 to £30 for useful working horses.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

FRESH FALL IN SILVER

Monetary conditions during the short Saturday session were particularly easy. Borrowers of fresh loans until Monday had no difficulty in providing for such requirements at ½ per cent. with "outside" lenders. During the past week the banks have been buyers of August and September maturities at ½ per cent., but even this business was small on Saturday.

Fine gold was unchanged at 140s. 11d. per ounce. Only 45 bars, valued at £128,000, changed hands in the market. The price included a premium of 7½d. over the dollar rate at 4.95½, and of 8d. over francs at 74 11/16.

Sellers of silver predominated, and, in the absence of any direct American Treasury support, the price fell 3/16d. to 30 5/16d. per ounce for cash and 30¼d. per ounce for forward delivery. The market, however, was far less excited than a week ago.

The foreign exchange market presented a quiet appearance. Sterling strengthened somewhat in terms of dollars to 4.95 5/16. French francs remained unchanged at 74 59-64, with Belgian belgas firmer at 29.29, and reichmarks showing a similar tendency at 12.28. Guilders were scarcely changed at 7.27.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

A Trust for Cables

It became known at the end of the week that an important step is to be taken by Cable and Wireless (Holding), Ltd., in connection with the repayment of one-third of the 5½ p.c. Pref. capital of the company. The intention is to create an investment trust company with a capital of £4,000,000. This will be divided into 4½ p.c. Redeemable Pref. and Ord. shares. There will also be debentures for £3,000,000, carrying 3½ p.c. interest. The Trust will take over Cable and Wireless (Holding) investments to the value of £7,000,000, taken at prices ruling on July 22. The Ord. capital will be held by Cable and Wireless (Holding), Ltd., but the Deb. stock and the Pref. shares will be offered for public subscription. The formation of the Trust will provide for a gradual liquidation of investments necessary to pay off a portion of Cable and Wireless (Holding) Pref. capital. The Pref. shares and Deb. stock of the new Trust will have fixed dates of redemption.

Maintaining Profits

A preliminary statement of profits by Johannesburg Consolidated Investment Company for the year to June 30 last was up to general market expectations (writes The Observer). This is one of the most important of the South African finance companies. Its interests on the Rand are valuable and widespread. It was realised, however, that the past twelve months' working had not afforded facilities for profitable dealing in stocks and shares as enjoyed in the preceding year. Consequently, the profit for last year of £1,142,000, after providing for all ascertained and estimated depreciation, was satisfactory. It compares with £1,347,000 for the preceding twelve months. It is necessary to realise that the 1933 profits totalled only £824,270, while those for 1932 were but £359,675. The big expansion in profits in the preceding two years has, therefore, been particularly well maintained in 1935. A substantial amount of the profit has again been derived from dealings in stocks and shares. In view of this, the directors have decided to transfer £350,000 of the year's profits to a reserve fund, raising that account to £2,300,000 against a total issued share capital of £3,950,000. In the previous year the allocation to reserve was £450,000. The share dividend is maintained at 3s. a share, and there is also a cash bonus of 1s. per share, as for 1934. After meeting such distributions the carry forward is raised from £168,000 to £171,000. The financial position of the company is particularly sound, while the profit statement had no particular effect upon the market value of the £1 shares, which stand at 76s.

Shares as Fees

Should the remuneration of managing directors take the form of shares in the companies they manage? The question is raised afresh by the proposal of the directors of E. K. Cole, the manufacturers of radio products, to issue at par 54,000 Ordinary 5s. shares, and to offer them in such proportions and on such conditions as they may think fit to the individual working directors, and to the company's chief executive officials (writes The Sunday Times). Much depends, of course, upon the price at which it is intended to offer these shares, and in this connection we think shareholders are entitled to ask for a plain statement at to-day's meeting. No doubt a shareholding in one's own company provides the best incentive to a managing director or a permanent official to put in his best work. In this instance the management, which counts for so much, has shown conspicuous ability, and the shareholders receive a highly satisfactory dividend and bonus, totalling 30 per cent. for the year. But, as a shareholder points out, as recently as 1933 no dividend was being paid, and he adds that when things go wrong it is no use for the shareholder to appeal to the directors to compensate him for his loss. The main question is whether the proposed remuneration is adequate or more than adequate for the admittedly important services which these officials render to the company.

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW

BUTTER FIRMER

FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Business in most departments of the provision trade continues on the quiet side, the present spell of hot weather causing buyers to hold-off and operate to a great extent for immediate requirements only. The market, however, closed fairly steady. Shipments of butter from Denmark and Sweden to Northern ports last week-end were on a rather larger scale, but there was some falling-off in the quantity of bacon and eggs. The Danish official quotation has this week been wired unchanged, and "top" again stands at 164 kroner per 100 kilos; at the corresponding period of last year the figure was 130 kroner; and in 1933 158 kroner. A rather better feeling is reported for all descriptions, and Continental makes closed steady with good demand. Irish creameries and Colonials ruled firm with, if anything, a hardening tendency. Production of butter in Denmark continues to decline, and, while in New Zealand it is approaching a seasonal minimum, a slight increase over last year's output is maintained. Prospects for production in Australia continue to develop unfavourably, and gradings for export are running appreciably smaller than a year ago. It is stated that shipments on passage from both Australia and New Zealand are considerably below last year's level.

BACON CHEAPER.

In bacon, business has been on the quiet side during the greater part of the week, but there was, if anything, an improving tendency towards the close. Spot prices for Irish were unchanged, and at the weekly meeting of the local Bacon Committee it was decided to make no change in English or Continental meats. Taken all round, bacon prices may be said to be almost on a parity with those ruling last year. English is this week quoted 80s. to 94s.; Danish, 84s. to 98s.; Swedish, 80s. to 89s.; Dutch, 79s. to 89s., and Polish, 77s. to 91s. At the corresponding period of last year the figures were:—English, 84s. to 94s.; Danish, 83s. to 93s.; Swedish, 80s. to 88s.; Dutch, 79s. to 87s., and Polish 76s. to 88s. With lighter supplies a firmer feeling is reported for all descriptions of eggs.

LIVE STOCK.

With the removal of foot-and-mouth disease restrictions business at both the Manchester Cattle and Pig Markets was again of a normal character. There was a slow demand for the comparatively small show of fat cattle, and prices tended in buyers' favour. Lambs, however, were in good request and firmly held. Spot supplies of pigs, although by no means heavy, were ample for the slow demand. Taken all round quotations were fairly steady. There was again a quiet feeling to note in all departments at the Manchester Meat Market. All classes of home-killed were in moderate supply, and there was no very marked fluctuation in prices as compared with last week. Imported beef was the turn lower, but best lambs occasionally made more money.

Dead poultry generally in slow request, but quotations for best quality birds are maintained. Good supplies of salmon and grilse clear readily at occasionally higher prices. Irish salmon quoted up to 1s. 6d., and grilse 1s. 3d. per lb. (wholesale).

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

MUNSTER AND LEINSTER BANK

In our comparative tables of the Munster and Leinster Bank balance sheets the deposits at June 30th, 1934, were given as £25,543,010. The correct figure is £24,543,010.

IMPERIAL BANK OF INDIA

Net profit for half-year Rs.43.76.700 (against Rs.43.75.407 for corresponding half of 1934), plus Rs.30.65.200 brought in. Dividend at 12 per cent. per annum (tax free) (same) Rs.33.75.000; to reserve Rs.7.50.000 (Rs.5.00.000), to pensions Rs.89.300 (Rs.72.700), forward Rs.32.27.000 (Rs.31.13.353).

FIGURES OF THE "BIG FIVE"

With the issue of the Midland Bank statement, the half-yearly statements of the "Big Five" have now all been published. An analysis of the aggregates shown by those banks shows that deposits have reached a fresh June record at £1,794,054,000, a rise of nearly 7 per cent., compared with the June 30, 1934, figure of £1,681,589,000. In 1933 the total was the previous record of £1,774,619,000. The cash item totals £185,088,000, which compares with £166,024,000 last year, but the decline shown in the 1934 figure reflected the special factors then operating. Thus the ratio of cash to deposits, which fell last year from 10.49 per cent. to 9.87 per cent., has recovered to 10.32 per cent. Advances are 2.7 per cent. higher at £704,336,000, compared with £685,139,000 a year ago. Call money shows a substantial expansion at £134,006,000, against £123,596,000, reflecting the new arrangement between the banks and the Bill market, and also as a result of Stock Exchange activity. The ratio of advances to deposits is down from 40.60 per cent. to 39.26 per cent.

A comparative table of the totals of the various items in the half-yearly statements of the "Big Five" for the past three years shows:—

STANDARD BANK OF SOUTH AFRICA

Net profits of the Standard Bank of South Africa increased by £69,411 in the year to 31st March last to £502,590. The distribution on the £2,500,000 of paid-up capital is raised by 2 per cent. to 12 per cent., less tax, by the addition this time of a bonus of 2s. per share (£5 paid). The allocation to pensions is £25,000 higher at £125,000, and the carry-forward is increased to £165,169 from £162,579 brought in. Deposits are slightly higher at £55,463,478, compared with £55,162,977. Cash and money at call at £13,925,500 shows a decrease of £5,755,772, but investments have risen by £2,899,598 to £12,726,046, and bills and advances by £2,489,121 to £27,737,729.

Australian Estates and Mortgage Co.—Gross profits declined from £240,726 to £185,635. This was due mainly to lower wool prices (states the report), although the volume of wool and produce handled was well maintained. The outlook for 1935 in Queensland, it is stated, was depressing until June, when rains fell. A further year's Preference dividend—for the year to June 30, 1932—was paid on July 1 last, and £13,890 is carried forward. The last Ordinary dividend was 5 per cent. for 1928.

Australian Estates and Mortgage Co.—Net profit, before Debenture interest, £112,515, against £149,130. After year's Preference dividend payment to June 30, 1932, sum of £13,889 goes forward.

Chelsea Electricity Supply.—Payment of 3 per cent., less tax, on Ordinary, against 3½ per cent.

Dundee, Perth and London Shipping.—Net profit for the year £21,764, against £21,735. Final dividend is 6 per cent., making 10 per cent., less tax, for the year (same), and £8,744 is carried forward.

Estates Control. — Profit £46,330, against £48,021. Final dividend 40 per cent., making 100 per cent., against 90 per cent.

Good "Kruschen" Profits.—A net profit of £246,580 is shown in the first report of Griffiths Hughes Proprietaries, the holding company of "Kruschen Salts" and other well-known medicinal products, for the period from July 3, 1934, to June 30, 1935. It is proposed to pay a final dividend of 10 per cent. and a bonus of 2½ per cent. on the £1,500,000 of Ordinary capital, making 17½ per cent., less tax, for the period. Preference dividend takes £42,625, and the balance of £518 is carried forward. Profits of E. Griffiths Hughes (the operating company) for the year to March 31 last amounted to £462,144. This is £10,773 above the previous year's profit of £451,370 as shown in the prospectus. After providing £102,597 for income tax, placing £90,000 to reserves and paying dividends amounting to £253,354 to the parent concern, a balance of £16,192 remains to be carried forward. The balance sheet shows floating assets amounting to £757,942, against liabilities, including final dividend, of £362,464.

Pearl Assurance Co.—Interim dividend of 25 per cent., free of tax (same as last year).

Roads Reconstruction (1934).—First report shows profit of £15,224, of which £10,933 goes to depreciation reserve, £2,102 in reducing preliminary expenses, and £2,189 for development expenditure.

Royal Bank of Canada.—Payment of 2 per cent. (same) for three months.

Zinc Corporation.—The report of the Zinc Corporation, Ltd., for 1934 shows an improved position. The estimated ore reserves at the end of last year show a reduction, but it is explained that this is only temporary. The actual profit of the company last year was £131,227, against £120,225 in 1933. The mine trading account assisted with an improvement from £63,819 to £85,952, despite a lower price for lead. The Preference shares of the company are entitled to a cumulative dividend of 20 per cent., and participate with the Ordinary in surplus profits. The fixed Preference dividend has been paid, as well as two participating dividends, totalling 1s. 6d. per share. This means that the dividend on the 10/- Ordinary shares is 15 per cent. for the year, as against 12½ per cent. a year ago. The report contains a detailed statement regarding the investments.

Compared with the arrivals of the preceding week these figures show an increase of 97,045 sheep and lamb carcases, 4,927 carcases and cases of pork and 7,249qrs. of beef, and a decrease of 349 bags, etc., of meat.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

A FEATURELESS SESSION

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Saturday.

It could not be said that there was any rush to buy on the Stock Exchange to-day. But the sentiment of the market was fairly optimistic, and the list ended slightly higher, following a turnover of 440,000 shares.

The improvement in Rails was attributed partly to reports that Mr Roosevelt will insist on the passage this session of the measure for the regulation of motor omnibuses and trucks.

Mining shares were disturbed by the decline in silver and by fears that the Treasury may alter its plans for extensive purchases of the metal.

The market closed steady, with fractional gains predominating.

Call money was nominal. Prime paper was quoted at ¾ to 1 per cent. Open market discount rates were unaltered at 3/16 per cent. bid and ⅛ per cent. asked for ninety-day bank bills, and ⅜ per cent bid and 5/16 per cent. asked for six months' bills.

Sterling exchange opened ⅛ higher at 4.95⅞, and early improved to 4.96. The rate finally closed ¼ higher compared with the previous close at 4.96.

Silver was 1c. lower at 67¾c.

Dry Nigerians were named at 5½d., and salted Queensland meats at 4½d. per lb. There was little change in the market for sole leather, a moderate demand being met at fully recent rates, tanners holding firmly to their quotations. Heavy bends of quality sold at very firm prices, and a steady business was reported in repairing bends. The market for offal was fairly active as regards shoulders, but a quieter inquiry was experienced for bellies. There was an active trade in rough leather, the call for split hides being particularly keen. Conditions in the market for upper leathers were somewhat quiet, but there was a moderate trade in blue and white leathers, together with a routine business in brown shades of kid.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Insect Bites : An Old Magazine : The Lord Mayor : Farmers to Broadcast : A Doctor's Scrap-Book

Windmills

With the exception of a few in the North, writes a correspondent, I doubt whether there are many windmills to be seen in Ireland nowadays. Before the advent of steam and petrol, wind-power was used for many purposes, and the mills which contained the machinery rank as some of the most decorative structures ever erected by man, in striking contrast, by the way, to modern petrol stations, which are merely hideous. After motoring in the region of the Norfolk Broads recently, I came away with an unforgettable picture of those silvery reaches of water, their long banks guarded by the graceful windmills which drain the marshes. The quietness of the eighteenth century, when most of these windmills were built, still clings to this beautiful part of England, as yet untainted by the ribbon-builder and the advertisement monger. They are best suited, of course, to flat countries, such as Holland, where currents of air are not likely to be disturbed by irregularities in the landscape. Since Cervantes made his hero tilt at them windmills have taken their place in literature, but Don Quixote was probably wiser than the modern politician, who is inclined to shiver his frail lance against objects of much greater solidity.

Insect Bites

During the summer months there are always a certain number of fatalities reported as having been caused by insect bites. It is, however, probable that most of these are due to blood-poisoning which might be sustained from any kind of scratch, the victims being usually people with less than normal powers of resistance. No healthy person need be seriously alarmed at being stung by a bee or a wasp; indeed, it has actually been asserted that bee stings act as an antidote to rheumatism. As a general rule, these insects do not sting without some previous provocation, and those who have sufficient common-sense to leave them alone need have no fear. The real insect pests are gnats, midges and, above all, the persistent and voracious horse-fly. Some volatile preparations are quite effective in keeping midges and gnats at a distance, but the horse-fly remains unaffected by such measures. Accustomed to the fact that the cattle on which he usually feeds are often unable to remove him, he will remain glued to exposed portions of the human anatomy until forcibly extracted. It is unpleasant to think what might happen if there were no birds to keep down the numbers of these blood-thirsty insects, and the efforts of our feathered friends in this respect provide one more reason why they should be suitably protected.

A Thirty-Year Old Magazine

While looking through some old books in my possession recently, writes a correspondent, I came across several numbers of a magazine published in Dublin during 1904 and 1905, which contained contributions from many writers prominent in the Irish literary movement of that period. The name of the publication was Dana, with the sub-title, "A magazine of independent thought." While glancing through the various articles, it occurred to me that many of the subjects dealt with would be just as provocative of controversy to-day as when they were written. On the other hand, it is doubtful whether a "magazine of independent thought" would endure for a year in the Ireland of to-day. Political freedom does not always mean freedom of expression, and the "independent thinkers" of 1904 might find themselves hampered by many restrictions in 1935. It is for this reason, I imagine, that several living writers of distinction, who were accustomed to contribute to this little magazine, now reside in other countries.

Some Contributors to "Dana"

It is of interest to note that "Dana" contained a number of articles by John Eglinton, who has just written a book on the Irish literary movement. The name of Mr. Eglinton will be familiar to all who have read George Moore's trilogy, "Ave," "Salve" and "Vale." Moore thought that Mr. Eglinton wrote the finest English prose of that period, and a perusal of the articles in "Dana" shows that the novelist had sound reasons for his opinion. Strange to say, the style is very different from his own. It is erudite balanced and serene, with the effect occasionally heightened by a malicious or satiric touch. For instance, in arguing against the contention that the Irish language was superior to English because it was saturated with piety, he remarks: "Listen to the last mutterings of the 'grand old tongue,' and you will hear it babbling of the fancies of its youth in the days before Patrick."

An article by "A.E." written in September, 1904, reads strangely nowadays, since it begins with the sentence: "The theory of physical force has been gradually ebbing away from politics in Ireland." Other contributors were George Moore, Jane Barlow, Fred Ryan, Seumas O'Sullivan, Oliver Gogarty, Padraic Colum, F. M. Atkinson, Sir Horace Plunkett, Robert Lynd and Stephen Gwynn, while the late Mr. T. W. Lyster provided a most interesting and valuable commentary on the writings of Jane Austen.

A Doctor's Scrap-Book

Recently there came to my hands a scrap-book, bearing the signature of an eminent medical practitioner, who died about a decade ago in Dublin, and containing the strangest medley of manuscripts and Press-cuttings that ever I saw between two covers. Serious intent is shown by the first item in this collection of wisdom and wit:

> "In reading authors, when you find
> Bright passages that strike your mind
> And which perhaps you may have reason
> To think on at another season,
> Be not contented with the sight,
> But take them down in black and white:
> Such a respect is wisely shown
> As makes another's sense one's own."

Then comes an observation on the delicate subject of fees: "A wealthy physician should not give advice gratis, because it is an injury to his professional brethren, whose office can never be supported but as a lucrative one, and it is defrauding the common funds when fees are dispensed with."

But the Doctor's ideas of selection took an early turn to matters not so serious when he inserted, between some notes on anatomical phenomena, the "Limerick" about the Pelican. A following page bears an "Agony" advertisement requesting an unknown gentleman, who took a hat and a new green silk umbrella from a reception at the College of Physicians, to pay £1 to St. Vincent's Hospital; and farther on is Huxley's opinion that a demonstration of Spiritualism was but an additional argument against suicide: "It is better," said the Professor, "to live a crossing-sweeper than die and be made to talk twaddle."

Elpis Hospital was the inspiration for a rhymed eulogy in the Doctor's scrap-book, but even a quotation from it might give some people too pretty a conceit of themselves. However, these lines are general enough for repetition:

> "Parson and Doctor joined in one,
> Most suitably we find,
> The one the suffering body treats,
> The other soothes the mind.
> The Parson shows the way to heaven,
> And then, with tender care,
> The Doctor consummates the work
> And gets the patient there."

Farmers to Broadcast

I do not know if any official announcement has yet been made with regard to the fact that we are to have the farmers on the ether shortly. It is, I know, the intention of the Minister for Agriculture to have a panel of farmers before the "Mike," and Dr. Kieran is arranging the dates and other details. I am not quite sure what the farmers can tell us in the evening about their activities that will interest the man in the street. They can, I suppose, tell their fellow farmers how they raise their stock, while they cannot instruct them how to market it. According to the news we hear in the ordinary way about farmers, I find it difficult to believe that many of them can even afford the radio in their holdings or can afford to pay the licence. But the Minister and Dr. Kieran—the Broadcasting Director—are not picking their broadcasting farmers haphazard. Instead they are choosing them, and carefully too, so that we shall not hear any "hard luck" stories from them. One I know is a Kildare man—a good Fianna Fail-Labour county.

Our Versatile Lord Mayor

The Lord Mayor of Dublin gave a new proof of his versatility the other day, when for an hour and a half he was a schoolmaster. This was on the occasion of the visit to the Mansion House of a party of 40 boys from St. Columba's College at the invitation of the Lord Mayor, who himself conducted them over the Mansion House and the Dail and Senate. The lovely rooms of the Mansion House and its pictures, some beautiful and all of historic interest, and the places whence we are, so to speak, governed, together with the Lord Mayor's explanations and comments, provided for the boys a lesson in history and current affairs which was delightful and therefore not easily to be forgotten. In the Dail, where the House was not sitting, the boys themselves, with the help of Deputy Byrne, held a debate: this was followed by a division, in which the Government was unfortunately defeated. The dignity of the proceedings was not sensibly diminished by the absence of all the deputies but one.

CORK STREET FEVER HOSPITAL

BUSIEST YEAR IN ITS HISTORY

The annual report of Cork Street Fever Hospital, Dublin, for the year ending 31st December, 1934, records the busiest year's work in the annals of the hospital. The Medical Superintendent (Dr. C. J. McSweeney) reported that 2,284 patients were admitted during the year, of whom 2,085 were discharged cured and 199 died. The available accomodation at Cork Street and Beneavin Auxiliary Hospital was kept fully occupied, the daily average number of patients being 262, as compared with 235 in 1933 and 244 in 1932. Diphtheria continued to be prevalent during the whole of the year, many of the cases being of a virulent type. Whooping cough was epidemic in the spring, and measles towards the close of 1934. In spite of every effort to continue the tradition of the hospital never to refuse a case, no less than 204 infectious patients had to be denied admission because of lack of accommodation. If the new fever hospital is adequately to serve the City and County of Dublin, it would appear that at least 500 beds will require to be provided therein.

The principal diseases treated during the year, with the number of cases, are set out in the following list, the figure in parentheses representing the number who died from each disease:—Diphtheria, 746 (70); scarlet fever, 478 (4); whooping cough, 103 (32); erysipelas, 79 (5); lobar pneumonia, 68 (12); measles, 60 (9); rubella, 51 (0); bronchial pneumonia, 53 (19); typhoid fever, 44 (9); puerperal sepsis, 38 (8); rheumatic fever and juvenile rheumatism, 31 (2); chicken-pox, 21 (2); tuberculous meningitis, 15 (15); influenza, 19 (0); mumps, 13 (0); cerebrospinal fever, 5 (3); tonsillitis, 300 (0); skin conditions, 28 (0); epidemic enteritis, 4 (1); paratyphod b. fever, 1 (0); pneumococcal meningitis, 4 (2); miscellaneous diseases, 123 (14).

The Medical Superintendent expressed thanks for the help rendered during the year by the visiting consultants, and paid a tribute to the loyalty and co-operation of the resident medical and nursing staff. The help of the City Medical Officer of Health and his staff was also gratefully acknowledged.

A the annual meeting Mr. P. S. Doyle, T.D., referred to the linen guild, who, in their report, state that their work, being purely samaritan, lies outside the scope of the general work of the hospital, and deserves every support to help them in carrying on for the benefit of the very poor in hospital.

The accounts for the year show an excess of expenditure over income of £2,109, 18s. 2d.

MOTOR NOTES

Leinster Trophy Prospects

Next Saturday's Race at Tallaght

BY HAROLD C. BROWN

On Saturday next we are to have the Leinster Trophy Race and with an entry of thirty, including some very fast cars, I think an afternoon of excellent sport may be anticipated.

Much, of course, will depend upon the handicapping. The fact that the back-markers never looked like coming through their field robbed the County Down Trophy Race of a certain amount of interest, but I have an idea that the leader board will show changes more frequently at Tallaght.

Everyone speaks well of the Tallaght course. It is going to be reasonably fast, and there are sufficient bends to impose a test of driving ability.

There will be an hour's practising on Wednesday morning, and another on Thursday morning. The Leinster Club are right in limiting the practising to an hour each morning. Both at Bray and Bangor we saw that after sixty minutes everyone had had enough—competitors, officials and spectators

Grand Stand

The official grand stand, enclosure and car park are on the outside of the course and may be reached from Dublin by those travelling via Crumlin while the race actually is in progress. Those who want to take up positions at other parts of the course should, however, be in their places before 2 o'clock, for at that hour the roads will be closed.

The race will start at 3 p.m. It will be run over 26 laps of a 5 11-12ths miles' course, so that the distance is 153 5-6ths miles. As this is a new course we are in the dark with regard to average speeds, but I imagine that the race will last the best part of two and a half hours.

Austin Dobson in the 2.6 litre Ferrari Alfa-Romeo will, no doubt, be the fastest, but it will be very interesting to watch the progress of the three Adlers. These cars will subsequently be raced at Limerick and in the Tourist Trophy race.

If all three Adlers are of approximately the same speed, which of their drivers will be the fastest? As R. B. S. Le Fanu showed at Bray in 1934 he is a sound, steady driver. C. H. W. Manders will be slightly more dashing, while E. M. Mitchell is regarded by many as about the most promising young driver in the Free State.

Other Drivers

P. DWYER made his debut at Bray. At Bangor he showed that he is not afraid to make his 3.3 litre Bugatti travel, and if he has any sort of a reasonable handicap I expect him to do well on Saturday, if he starts.

H. C. McFerran's new Bugatti has yet to show what it can do. W. T. McCalla's Sunbeam is going faster than ever, but Frank O'Boyle's Riley seems to have passed its best stage. Flight-Lieutenant L. R. Briggs is clever, and F. H. ffrench Davis has improved enormously, as he showed at Bangor.

Miss Fay Taylour, being the only woman in the race, and also as last year's winner, will be a popular figure. D. McCracken can scarcely expect to repeat his recent Bray success, while C. M. White and his Tracta are rather unknown qualities.

J. Chambers, brother of the late "Herbie," drove fairly well at Bangor, and F. Sutherland is not exactly a slow-coach. Most of the rest of the drivers can be estimated more accurately when the handicaps are available.

The List

The list of entries is as follows:—

P. Dwyer—3,255 c.c. Bugatti.
A. Dobson—2,600 c.c. Alfa Romeo s/c.

G. Creswell—1,496 c.c. Frazer Nash.
D. McCracken—1,496 c.c. Frazer Nash.
C. M. White—1,486 c.c. Tracta.
R. W. Hunter—1,250 c.c. M.G. Magna.
W. J. Kavanagh—1,287 c.c. M.G. Magnette.
W. McQuillan—1,087 c.c. Salmson.
J. Chambers—1,089 c.c. Riley.
W. F. O'Riordan—1,087 c.c. Riley.
F. O'Boyle—1,089 c.c. Riley.
A. Carr—1,084 c.c. Lagonda.
F. H. ffrench Davis—995 c.c. Fiat.
R. B. S. Le Fanu—995 c.c. Adler.
E. M. Mitchell—995 c.c. Adler.
C. H. W. Manders—995 c.c. Adler
F. Sutherland—972 c.c. Le Mans Singer.
H. Massy—972 c.c. Le Mans Singer.
J. Toohey—933 c.c. Ford.
L. R. Briggs—847 c.c. M.G.
R. Kay—847 c.c M.G.
A. P. Huet—847 c.c. M.G.
S. R. Sheane—847 c.c. M.G.
D. Yule—747 c.c. Austin s/c.
L. M. Goodbody—747 c.c. Austin.
Miss Fay Taylour—995 c.c. Adler.

S/c indicates that the car is super-charged.

The age of miracles being passed, it is improbable that all the foregoing will come to the post. There have been certain difficulties about securing cars for some of the entrants, and various other factors may reduce the field. However, it is big enough to stand a bit of thinning without interfering with the prospects for a bright race.

"Round the Houses"

No one ever thought of calling the Monaco Grand Prix a "round the houses" race; it was just a race through the streets of the town. Then came the Mannin Beg and Mannin Moar—the races of the little men and the big men—through the streets of Douglas. The Manx titles seemed good enough, but someone called it the "round the houses" race meeting and everybody thought that was an awfully good description, and there we were—all future races through town streets were dubbed "round the houses" race.

I think the Irish Motor Racing Club can fairly legitimately claim that the Bray race was the world's third meeting through town streets, Monaco being first and Douglas second. When the race was first proposed there was, I remember, a fierce argument as to whether or not it should be called a "round the houses" race. Opponents described those words as a loose newspaper catch-phrase, and not legitimate automobile English.

Cuairt

The Bray race was christened the Cuairt Bhre, Irish (approximately) for "circuit of Bray." But people, notwithstanding the I.M.R.C., called it the Bray "round the houses" race. The forthcoming Limerick race is the Cuairt Luimnigh, but Limerick "round the houses" actually has found its way on to the official programme!

In the last twelve months races of this type have become popular in Italy. The Nice Grand Prix is an up and down the promenade race and "round the palm trees and le Jardin Albert" rather than a "round the houses."

"Round the houses" has stuck as the proper description for races through town streets; some are so fascinated by the phrase that they apply it to ordinary road races which impinge for a fraction of their circuit upon towns—the recent County Down Trophy race was an example.

Last week one of the English motoring papers, apparently disgusted with the misuse of the phrase, of which it, too, had not been guiltless, described all such races as street races. I don't like "Limerick street race" at all. It doesn't suggest Luis Fontes and Charles Brackenbury and Austin Dobson and R. E. L. Featherstonhaugh and people like that in a £1,000 race; does it?

Street race? Round the houses? What's wrong with Cuairt Luimnigh?

Fairfield for Dieppe

P. G. FAIRFIELD, who has entered for the Limerick race, will take part in the Dieppe races this week end. He, Raymond Mays, R. J. B. Seaman and Humphrey Cook will drive E.R.A.'s in the 1,500 c.c. race on Saturday. In the same event Mrs. Gwenda Stewart, the greatest of all women drivers, will handle a new Derby equipped with a super-charged four-cylinder Maserati engine. This car has been built specially for road racing.

In the Dieppe Grand Prix on Sunday Mays will drive a two-litre E.R.A. Other Grand Prix entries are: Earl Howe, the Hon. Brian Lewis and A. H. L. Eccles in Bugattis; Nuvolari and Chiron with Ferrari Alfa-Romeos; Zhender and Etancelin in Maseratis; Benoist and Wimille with factory Bugattis; Falchetto with a Maserati; Raph with an Alfa, and Brunet with another Maserati.

The Late F. A. Gannon

I HAD written a few words about Frank Gannon in my review of the Leinster Trophy entries. I had to cut them out in the proof, for he was injured in a motor accident on Saturday night and died yesterday.

He was at the Dublin "Hundred" on Saturday. Later he and another driver and myself discussed Tallaght and Limerick prospects. He was full of enthusiasm for car racing.

Frank Gannon was second in the recent Bray race. He had also driven in the Phœnix Park. In the first of the I.M.R.C. races in the Park he was lying third, and doing very well on handicap, when his car went on fire. He had a great deal of driving skill.

His father, Mr. Bertie Gannon, is a well-known member of the motor trade. Frank Gannon was 24 years of age.

LEGION VISIT TO BELGIUM

CORDIAL WELCOME FOR IRISH EX-SERVICE MEN

The party of ex-Service men, members of the Irish Free State Branch of the British Legion, numbering upwards of one hundred and fifty, which had been on a tour of the Belgian battlefields since July 6th, returned to Dublin on Saturday morning. Their itinerary in Belgium included visits to Ostend, which they made their headquarters; Ypres, Zeebrugge, Knocke and other scenes of memorable battles of the Great War.

At Ostend the party, which was under the leadership of Major-General Sir William B. Hickie, President, and Mr. A. P. Connolly, Chairman, of the Irish Free State Branch of the Legion, visited the war memorials, accompanied by the Ostend Branch of the Union des Anciens Combattants and the town band. A wreath was laid on the Irish War Memorial at Wytschaete. Many of the party visited the Brussels International Exhibition and Ghent.

The general impression left in the minds of everyone participating in the tour, said Mr. A. P. Connolly on his return to Dublin, was the cordial nature of the welcome etended wherever they went. Everyone was unanimous in expressing appreciation of the friendly and warm welcome given to the party by the Belgian people.

RECEPTION AT OSTEND

A most enjoyable feature, he said, was their reception at Ostend by the G.O.C. of the 3rd Regiment of the Line, together with local officers, who expressed their pleasure at meeting Major-General Sir William Hickie and a representative party of ex-Service men from the Irish Free State. They invited the party to be their guests on the first available opportunity during the visit. This invitation, said Mr. Connolly, was accepted, and on Wednesday last the party were entertained at the barracks in Ostend, and spent a most enjoyable time.

Mr. Connolly also mentioned that, on arrival at Ostend, the party were extended a welcome by the Burgomaster and Town Council at the Hotel de Ville. The Burgomaster and members of the Council requested Major-General Sir William Hickie to convey to the Irish people the Belgian people's appreciation of the visit and of the great part taken by Ireland in the defence of Belgium during the war. The hope was expressed that it would be possible to make a return visit.

On leaving the quay at Ostend on the return journey on Friday last, representatives of the Town Council and the Belgian Army, with the British Consul and other officials, were present to bid the party bon voyage.

IRISH WEDDING

DR. E. E. SATCHWELL AND MISS M. H. LOUGHRIDGE

The wedding took place early on Saturday morning last in St. Mary's Church, Donnybrook, of Dr. Ernest E. Satchwell, Enniskillen, youngest son of the late Mr. Hubert Satchwell and Mrs. Satchwell, Creggs, Co. Galway, and Miss Muriel Helen Loughridge, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Canning Loughridge, of Frankfort, Clonskea, Dublin. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon Powell, M.A., Rector of the parish.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an oyster-coloured crêpe frock, tied with a wide sash of dark brown silk. Her halo hat was to tone, and she carried a bouquet of golden ophelia roses. The only bridesmaid—Miss Iris Taylor, a cousin of the bride—was dressed in a Wedgwood blue frock, with a large picture hat to tone. Her bouquet was of pink malmaisons.

Captain L. Strutt acted as best man. The groomsmen in the church were Mr. J. B. Ganly, Dr. Brendan O'Brien, Mr. W. Ganly and Mr. Norman Hewitt.

A reception was held at Frankfort on Thursday last, at which nearly 400 guests were present.

Owing to the early hour of the wedding the bride and bridegroom left immediately for their honeymoon, which will be spent in a motor tour in Scotland.

TRIBUTE TO NEW PRESIDENT

ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS' ASSOCIATION ELECTION

Commenting on the election of Mr. A. G. Bruty, of Dublin, as President of the Electrical Contractors' Association and Allied Associations for the year 1935-36, the Electrical Contractor and Retailer for this month observes that it is immensely gratifying to note that Mr. Bruty was willing to undertake the very onerous duties of this high office.

"Despite persistent residence in Dublin," it states, "our new President, Mr. A. G. Bruty, M.I.E.E., was born in London and educated at St. Alban's School and the London Polytechnic Engineering School. He served some time with Edmundson's Electricity Corporation at Westminster and went to Dublin in 1910, his present business being established in 1921.

MR. A. G. BRUTY

"Mr. Bruty was Chairman of the Irish Centre of the I.E.E. 1919-20; President of the Engineering and Scientific Association of Ireland, 1930; first Chairman of the E.C.A. Dublin Branch, 1925; Secretary of the E.C.A. Irish Sectional Board since its formation in 1926; member of the E.C.A. Council since 1926; member of the Council of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, 1934; and Vice-Chairman of the Irish Society of Electrical Traders, 1935. With this impressive record behind him, it is not surprising to hear that, electrically, Mr. Bruty finds life 'quite interesting.' And now for some of those secret things we all find so very absorbing. As a golfer, Mr. Bruty rejoices to observe that the ball, after being struck with the utmost violence, is somewhat nearer the hole than it was before; and when we report that on two occasions our new President has addressed audiences on 'The Evolution of the Carol,' it is only too apparent that he has other interests in life far removed from wiring rules and exclusive buying agreements. Personally, we intend to furbish up our rich baritone voice and give him some new and original renderings of these moving compositions."

ON THE WIRELESS

Daily Programme Review

DUBLIN: Station Broadcast, "Michael," 8.15.

NORTHERN IRELAND: Orchestral Concert. Conductor, Fritz Brasé, 8.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: "From Old Canada," Musical programme, 8.45.

MIDLAND: Midland Chamber Concert, 8.

NORTH: Three Short Plays, 8.

RADIO PARIS: Concert from Vichy Casino, 8.45.

ROME: Operetta: "The Cinema Star" (Gilbert), 8.40.

"DYING CHEERFULLY," one would think, might well rank as an unusual feature of general interest, for which the Director of Broadcasting appealed some weeks ago. It is the subject for Father Brennan's fourth talk in his series, "The Humour of an Irish Parish," which he will give in the Dublin programme to-night at 8.

Whether from the Saorstat Stations or from Northern Ireland it matters not, listeners will indeed be glad to hear once more an orchestral concert under the direction of Colonel Fritz Brasé. To-night the concert will come from Northern Ireland, when, as guest conductor, Colonel Brasé will direct the B.B.C. Northern Ireland Orchestra, with Norman Allin (bass) as soloist. The programme is composed of just the items one would anticipate, knowing the conductor, Colonel Brasé, whose fine interpretation of Wagner is well-known to musical folk in this country, has chosen to include "The Mastersingers" Overture and the Prelude, Bridal Procession and Prelude (Act III.) from "Lohengrin," and he concludes the concert with "Jupiter," taken from Holst's Suite, "The Planets." Norman Allin will sing two Handel arias to orchestral accompaniment, and later a group of three songs, including Mussorgsky's "Song of the Flea."

Among other excellent concerts, the Birmingham Ladies' String Quartet, assisted by Emily Boughton (soprano) and Margaret Ablethorpe (pianoforte) will be heard in a concert of Chamber Music at 8 in the Midland programme; and a choral concert in Welsh will be given by the Aberystwyth Madrigal Singers, with E. M. Pryse-Jones, who will contribute two groups of folk songs to the programme. (West, 8.)

A programme of popular music will be played by the Scottish Military Band, conducted by John McIvor at 8 (Scottish), while Ina Souez (soprano) and Ernest Butcher (baritone) will be heard with the B.B.C. Theatre Orchestra, under Stanford Robinson, at 9 on the Regional wave-length, when listeners should note the last item in the programme is that of Ravel's "Bolero."

The Russian programme, "The Red Sarafan," consists of another cabaret show to-night in the true Russian manner, which has made this feature popular. This production will include Marina Turlova, a special visitor.

Canada also contributes to-night. Sir Ernest Macmillan, who is now on a visit to England, will introduce and conduct a programme of French-Canadian music, in which Frank Ranalow (baritone) will be the solo singer, and the Gershom Parkington Quintet will play. (National, 8.45.)

THE SHANNON SCHEME

SUPPLY BOARD'S REPORT

210 TOWNS AND AREAS SUPPLIED

A SURPLUS of £155,300 on sales of electricity is shown in the eighth annual report of the Electricity Supply Board for the year ending March 31, 1935. This is a marked advance on the previous year, when the profit and loss account showed only a surplus of revenue to the amount of £10,287.

The sales of electricity increased by 18,461,000 units, the new consumers taken on totalled 11,076, and the revenue was increased by £108,707 to a total of £1,258,388.

Out of its profits the Board paid £489,683 to the Minister for Finance as interest at five per cent. on the State's investment in the national electricity undertaking. It also paid £79,020 for interest and repayments of capital in respect of liabilities assumed on local authority undertakings acquired, bringing the total capital charges to £568,703, of which £553,481 was chargeable against the profit and loss account. The total advances of capital by the State for the Shannon works and Board development amounted to £10,003,371 at the end of the year.

EXPENSES LOWER

Working expenses were down by £37,168, chiefly because costs of an abnormal nature, such as had been incurred in the preceding year by reason of the drought, did not arise to the same extent.

The surplus of income over expenditure accrued to 31st March last has been placed to general reserve. During the present year it is expected that the Minister for Finance will determine the basis and fix the date for commencement of repayment of advances made for the Shannon works and for subsequent development by the Board.

The installations department of the Board carried out contracts to the value of £43,520, and shows a net profit of £899.

Sales of appliances by the merchandise sales department totalled £34,834 for the year, showing an increase of £3,746 and a net profit of £855.

The sale of electricity for the year amounted to 156,964,146 units, and the number of consumers at the end of the was 103.037

Supply from the Board is now available in 210 distinct towns or areas, 14 new areas being added during the period reviewed.

New industrial motive power connected amounted to 6,791 h.p., bringing the total industrial load to 59,281 h.p.

EXPANSION IN USE

With the exception of the sugar factories, all new industries started during the year within the Board's area of supply, took their motive power supply from the Board's mains. These new power users included flour mills in Cork, Portlaoighise, Carlow and Clara; maize mills at Westport, timber mills at Navan, oil and cake mills at Drogheda, and several other large industrial concerns.

A marked expansion is taking place in the use of electricity, especially for cooking purposes, in large institutions, such as hospitals, colleges, convents and convalescent homes. Water-heating and space heating by electricity are also being largely adopted by such institutions

Mention is made in the report of the opening of the National Maternity Hospital, Holles street, Dublin, the first hospital in Ireland to utilise electricity for all services. The new post office in Rathmines, Dublin, is quoted as another example of a large building using electricity for all services, the heating equipment being a special feature.

On the domestic side it is stated that the use of electric cooking and water-heating by domestic consumers shows a steady expansion, which has been accelerated by the introduction of attractive mileage schemes.

PUBLIC LIGHTING

The use of electricity for public lighting continues to increase, new contracts being secured in sixteen areas. In Cork City a contract was entered into for the re-design of the existing public lighting and the extension of the use of electricity to the lighting of the entire city.

The Board embarked on a new type of publicity during the year in the nature of all-electric demonstration houses for public inspection in various parts of Dublin. The present activity in house building, the report states, has stimulated a definite interest in the domestic applications of electricity.

Referring to power development and new works, the report states provision was made for expenditure on the development of additional water storage on the River Shannon. A contract was placed for the work on Lough Allen, through which added storage of 150,000,000 cubic metres will be secured. Certain minor works essential for the lowering of Lough Ree, to obtain additional storage of 64,000,000 cubic metres, were also commenced.

Considerable progress was made in the improvement of the Pigeon House Station. A new 25,000 Kw. steam turbo-generating set was installed, the installation of the two additional steam boilers completed, new mechanical coal-handling plant and cranes erected, the harbour partially dredged, and the wharf reconstructed for a distance of 220 feet. Arrangements were made for additional deepening of the harbour and river approach, and a further extension of the wharf during the present summer. A contract was placed for the construction of a new cooling-water system to be completed by May, 1936.

THE LIFFEY SCHEME

Constructional work on extensions and additions to the transmission and distribution lines included 98 miles of low tension overhead mains and 13 miles of underground, 86½ miles of high tension transmission lines, 6 miles of high tension underground cable, 59 new stations and sub-stations. Referring to the Liffey scheme, the report states that before reaching any decision or making any recommendations in regard to the hydro-electric development of the River Liffey, the Board deemed it desirable to obtain expert advice, and Professor E. Meyer-Peter and Dr. J. Buchi, of Zurich, had accordingly been consulted. To supplement the data already available it was found necessary to make further observations and measurements, particularly of water flow conditions. The report of the experts is expected at an early date.

Under the Shannon Fisheries Act, which was passed in February last, certain duties have devolved upon the Board in relation to the Shannon fisheries. Subject to the primary function of maintaining, working and developing the Shannon hydro-electric works the Board will manage, conduct and preserve the Shannon fisheries in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

WOMEN'S PRISONERS' DEFENCE LEAGUE

"John Brennan," speaking at a meeting at Cathal Brugha street, Dublin, yesterday, under the auspices of the Women's Prisoners' Defence League, said that the present troubles in Belfast proved once again that the so-called problem in Northern Ireland, as established by the 1920 Act of an English Government, would never be settled until a republic for the whole of Ireland was functioning.

Miss Helena Molony presided at the meeting, which also was addressed by Madame Maud Gonne MacBride and Mr. T. Ward.

PEAMOUNT CARE COMMITTEE

For three days only—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—of this week the Peamount Care Committee are holding their annual sale of country produce at 22 Nassau street, Dublin, which has been kindly lent for the occasion. Owing to the late tramway strike the sale had to be postponed from Holy Week. It is hoped that all housewives who can do so will patronise the sale, for the funds of the society are sadly in need help towards sending tubercular cases to the country in an effort to restore lost health. Contributions of flowers, vegetables, fruit, eggs, cakes, etc., will be gratefully received.

URBAN COUNCIL AFFAIRS

EVIDENCE OF TOWN CLERK

SECOND DAY OF THE LISTOWEL INQUIRY

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LISTOWEL, Saturday.

THE second day's hearing of the inquiry, which is being conducted by Mr. McLysaght, Local Government Board Inspector, into the affairs of the local Urban Council, was held in the Courthouse, Listowel.

Mr. P. Brown, M.C.C., a member of the previous Urban Council, for whose attendance the Inspector on the previous day had granted a subpœna on the application of Mr. O'Mahony, solicitor, announced from the gallery his willingness to give evidence, if required. The Inspector decided not to hear Mr. Brown.

When the Town Clerk (Mrs. A. Gleeson) was giving evidence regarding the opening of a new water rents account, Mr. Barrett, a member of the present Council, asked for, and was refused, permission to reply.

The Inspector acceded to the request of John Dennehy, secretary of the Citizens' Defence Committee, and produced the order from the Minister authorising him to hold the inquiry.

Mr. Dennehy said that he took full responsibility for the document, which had referred to the inquiry as a "bogus inquiry." He wished to point out that the words were not intended to reflect in any way on the impartiality of the Inspector, but they were used to convey the opinion, that was widely held in the town, that, no matter what was the result of the inquiry, the abolition of the Council was a foregone conclusion. It was mentioned six months ago that a Commissioner was to be appointed, and that certain persons were approached in regard to the appointment. He wished to submit that the inquiry was not a proper tribunal to investigate counsel's contention regarding ". . . the legality of outstanding loans obtained by previous Councils in the six years prior to 1934."

Mrs. Gleeson (Town Clerk) was recalled and examined on behalf of the Council by Mr. Macaulay, solicitor.

She said that usually the rate was struck in June, and the work of preparing the estimates began about two or three months before that. The former Council had taken no steps to strike the 1934-35 rate. The present Council assumed office in July, 1934, and struck the rate in October, and they acted expeditiously in the matter.

LEGALITY OF LOANS

Dealing with the new houses which had been erected, she said that the average rent would be 4s. per week, plus 1s. 6d. rates, making a total of 5s. 6d. She thought that many of the people who would get those houses would find it hard to pay that amount, and any deficiency in rents would have to be made up out of the rates. That would be a heavy burden on the rates, and that aspect of the case had been discussed at length by the Council on several occasions, and was one of the reasons why they thought that they should inquire into the validity of the loans.

The Council had acted expeditiously in the matter of housing schemes after it came into office, and the arrangements for a clearance order were completed in the following September. An inquiry was held into the housing scheme in January last, and a report was sent to the Minister, but since then they had no communication from the Department. She was aware that eminent counsel had advised the Council that the loans for the housing scheme and the Lacca water supply were illegal. She wrote to the Department of Local Government pointing out that they were in doubt in regard to the legality of the loans, and were, therefore in grave doubt in regard to whether the interest to meet them should be included in the estimate.

After some delay the Department replied that the Council was bound to provide for all their legal liabilities, but it did not advise the Council in regard to whether the loans referred to were illegal or not.

After further replies the Council realised that the Department was not going to answer the questions, and they made a rate of 31s. 6d. in the £, as compared with the previous rate of 19s. She agreed that if the former Council had struck a rate to meet all the expenditure it would have been much higher than 19s.

"CONSTERNATION"

There was consternation in the town when the new Council was compelled to increase the rate from 19s. to 31s. 6d. That rate was quashed in May last because some statutory requirement was not complied with. The procedure followed in connection with the striking of the rate was the same as that followed by the Council for many years.

Mr. Macaulay—Am I right in saying that Mr. T. J. Walsh, who had been Chairman of the former Council for many years, was the gentleman who succeeded in getting the rate quashed, though the procedure in striking it had been the same which he himself had followed for a number of years?—Yes.

The witness, continuing, said that one of the items of expenditure to which the present Council took exception was the yearly payment of £704 to the Board of Works in connection with the Lacca water supply. That scheme was not adequate to give a complete water supply to the town, and the engineers had estimated that it would cost about £5,000 to make it a success. The Department had made an offer of a free grant of £3,500 for the purpose of rectifying the scheme, which showed that it was not a complete success.

DELAY IN STRIKING RATE

Mr. Macaulay explained that the Council had thrown down the gauntlet to the Board of Works to test the legality of its loans in the proper courts, but they had not done so. That was one of the reasons that led to a delay in the striking of the rate for, not having heard from the Board of Works as to their intentions, the Council did not know whether they would have to provide for legal costs in an action.

Mr. McLysaght said that the proper course for the Council was to meet its obligations and then seek their legal remedy in the Courts.

Replying to Mr. Clarke, Mrs. Gleeson said that there were free fights on occasions at the meetings of the Council, during which some of the members took off their coats.

Mr. J. Barrett (a member of the Council)—That is a lie.

Mr. Denis McMahon, who had been clerk of works at the Lacca water scheme, said that he looked upon the scheme as a failure to the extent that it went dry in dry weather.

Dr. Gerald FitzGerald (Tralee), Acting County Medical Officer of Health, said that, personally, he did not know anything about the water supply, but handed in reports and analysis made by Dr. Bastille, County Medical Officer of Health.

The inquiry adjourned until 11 o'clock on Monday.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

CHARGE OF OBSTRUCTION

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

William Rochford, Capel street, was charged with obstructing the passage of pedestrians, and using obscene language outside Dalymount Park on Friday evening during the progress of a boxing tournament.

Guard Moorhead (56D), who, with Guard McManus, prosecuted, said that he asked the defendant to "move on," and he refused and used bad language, besides assuming a threatening attitude.

The defendant explained that he had drink taken at the time. He was discharged, to come up for judgment within twelve months if called upon.

To-day's Motor News

THE DUBLIN "HUNDRED"

H. CARSON WINS AT 69 M.P.H.

H. CARSON, a Dublin University student, won the Dublin "Hundred" motor cycle road race, which was run on Saturday over the motor cycle course—as distinct from the Grand Prix course—in the Phœnix Park.

The 100 miles championships of the Motor Cycle Union were decided at the same time. H. Taggart won the 500 c.c. class and H. V. Quinn the 350 c.c. class.

M. F. McSorley, who was regarded as a certainty for the 250 c.c. class, collided with a cow which had wandered on to the course. He was taken to Steevens' Hospital suffering from head injuries, shock, and a fractured left arm. Last night his condition was stated to be serious.

No 250 c.c. rider finished.

Of the twenty-nine starters only nine completed the course. Most of the casualties were amongst the limit men, who were, to a great extent, riding oldish machines and were less likely to last the distance. Of the six riders whom the handicappers regarded as being the fastest, all finished the course except J. J. O'Neill, whose Velocette never seemed to go really well.

Taggart, at 77.67 m.p.h., made a new record for the race, but his best lap at 79 m.p.h. was two seconds slower than C. H. W. Manders's old lap record.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

A FATAL MISTAKE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

WICKLOW, Saturday.

At Wicklow Circuit Court yesterday, before Judge Devitt and a jury, Dr. Nora Wallace, Dublin, who had been temporary medical officer at Dunganstown Dispensary, Barndarrig, Wicklow, was indicted on a charge of manslaughter.

Mr. Forbes, for the State, said that evidence would show that a child of Mrs. Merriman's, Ballyguile, Wicklow, was being specially treated by Nurse Joyce, and that Nurse Joyce called more socially than professionally to see Dr. Wallace, obtaining from her a bottle of olive oil. This "olive oil" she divided into a smaller bottle and sent to the mother to be applied under directions to the baby, and when the mother did apply it she was horrified to find that it burned the baby. She applied it to her own finger, and it burned her, and she saw there had been a fatal mistake. The baby died within an hour.

Nurse Joyce said that she got the bottle unlabelled when she asked for oilve oil for a delicate baby, and believed it was olive oil.

Dr. O'Connor said that when called to the house the child was dead. Mrs. Merriman handed him the bottle used and he noticed at once that it was carbolic acid.

Dr. Wallace said that in handing the bottle to Nurse Joyce she firmly believed it contained olive oil. She had found it with other unlabelled bottles in the dispensary, melted it to test its contents, and satisfied herself.

Judge Devitt said they never had occasion to find fault with the doctors or chemists of this country, who were very careful and rarely made a mistake. He did not think the evidence showed in any degree moral turpitude or criminal negligence. The safest way to deal with unlabelled bottles was to pitch them out.

The jury returned a verdict of "Not Guilty," and rcommended that in future the medical board should ensure that all bottles containing dangerous drugs or poison should be labelled; such stocks not complying with this requirement to be destroyed.

FERMOY CYCLIST INJURED

A serious accident occurred at Castletowncoach, County Cork, yesterday evening, as a result of which a young man lies critically injured in Fermoy Hospital.

Two young Fermoy men, Daniel Murphy, of Patrick street, and Patrick Mearney, of Richmond Cottages, were cycling down a steep hill in the village of Ballyadeen. Murphy, who was in front, skidded, and the bicycle fell Mearney, coming from behind, struck the wheel of the fallen bicycle, and was thrown head first against a stone wall. He was taken to Fermoy Hospital after first aid had been rendered by Sergeant Healey and Guard Bull. His condition is critical.

FATAL WEXFORD ACCIDENT

MAN PINNED BENEATH VAN

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ENNISCORTHY, Saturday.

Laurence O'Connor (28), a salesman employed by Mr. S. A. Earle, merchant, Enniscorthy, was killed this morning when the delivery van which he was driving went over the roadside fence at Salville, about a mile from Enniscorthy, and, overturning, pinned him beneath.

From the evidence given at the inquest held at the County Home, Enniscorthy, to-night, it appeared that Mr. O'Connor set out on his daily round at 10.30 a.m., and a short time afterwards was found lying dead beneath the van, which had fallen eight feet into a field beside the road. Marks on the road indicated that the van left the concrete road, and after going forty yards on the grass margin, swerved across the road, crashing into a tree. There was no other vehicle on the road at the time of the accident. The verdict was "Accidental death." The deceased man, who was a native of Kilmuckridge, leaves a widow and two children.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND

Rioting was renewed in Belfast on Saturday night and during Sunday afternoon. Two young men were shot dead on Saturday night, and there were many wounded. It is stated officially that the casualties during the three days were four dead, including a woman; forty-two in hospital with gunshot wounds, and thirty-one with other injuries. The destruction of property includes twelve houses set on fire and thirty-eight wrecked or damaged in the York street area, while yesterday in Sandy row one shop was burnt and two were looted and wrecked. Another victim has died since, making the total five.—(Page 7.)

Civic Guards and detectives made a raid early yesterday on a camp at Gyles quay, Co. Louth, where 80 men were encamped, seized arms and ammunition, and detained twelve of the men.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD

Six persons lost their lives when a Dutch air liner crashed and burst into flames near Amsterdam yesterday. Two of the victims were English.—(Page 7.)

Paris "Fourteenth of July" passed off quietly, the rival demonstrators of the Left and Right not coming into conflict.—(Page 7.)

The wife of the Austrian Chancellor was killed in a motor accident, in which the Chancellor and his son also were involved, on Saturday.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Leopardstown on Saturday Lalique won the Dun Laoghaire Plate, Diligent Girl the Three Rock Plate, My Aid the Killiney Plate, Norman Glory the Sandyford Steeplechase, The Ace the Stillorgan Plate, and Careful Prince the Tower Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Lingfield on Saturday Desert Night won the Great Foal Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Chepstow Bideford Bay won the Welsh Derby.—(Page 10.)

At Hamilton Park Vallip won the Cambuslang Handicap.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL

In Lombard street on Saturday money rates were easy and unchanged. Gold remained at 140s. 11d. per oz., and only £128,000 was sold. There were sellers of silver, and the price fell to 30 5-16d. per oz. Foreign exchanges were quiet.—(Page 3.)

Belfast's Shame

Once again the ceremonies in Belfast in connection with the twelfth of July have been marred by displays of hooliganism, which, on this occasion, have resulted in the loss of several lives and a formidable catalogue of other casualties. Year after year the same gruesome story is told. The "Twelfth" seems to inflame all the worst passions in both Protestants and Roman Catholics in Belfast, and as time progresses the bitterness between the two sides seems to be growing more and more intense. Nothing could be more futile than an argument as to "who began it?" According to one report, a peaceful procession of Orangemen was returning from its annual celebration, when it was attacked wilfully by a Roman Catholic mob; according to another version, the celebrating Orangemen set about a number of peace-loving Roman Catholics. Be that as it may, the two parties are at each other's throats. Both sides apparently have firearms and do not hesitate to use them. Both have been behaving in blackguardly fashion, and, although the police have been doing their best to keep the peace, disgraceful scenes have been enacted during the last few days. In fact, there is very little to choose between the two mobs in Belfast. One is larger than the other; but they both are a disgrace to the country to which they belong. It is a dreadful commentary on our Irish Christianity that the mediævalism of the Stuart period should be projected into the twentieth century. Belfast is virtually the only city in the world in which Protestants and Roman Catholics cannot live as friends, side by side, and, although the Northern Government is taking drastic steps to restore order, some, at least, of its members cannot be absolved altogether from responsibility for the recurrent disturbances. Far too often responsible Ministers are inclined to drag religion into their political speeches, thus encouraging the ignorant mob to give rein to its bigoted passions. The Orange Order may be an admirable organisation in many ways; but many of its members take advantage of the "Twelfth" to vent their feelings against the Roman Catholic Church. A foul word is spoken, a blow is struck, or a shot is fired—and then Belfast goes mad. Surely it is high time that this sort of thing should cease. Ireland boasts that she is a Christian country; yet time after time the Protestants and Roman Catholics of the North act in a manner of which Bashi-bazouks would be ashamed. In an admirable sermon recently the Bishop of Down, Connor and Dromore made a strong appeal for religious peace in his diocese. Roman Catholic priests also have been urging their flocks to refrain from violence, whatever may be the provocation. The Churches, however, are almost helpless in the face of popular savagery. Awful things have been done in Belfast during the last few days in the name of religion, and, unless and until the political leaders determine that a halt shall be called, the miserable business will be likely to continue. Who will take the first step? Viscount Craigavon is a man of high personal character and of uncommon courage. In common with several of his colleagues he has been influenced in the past by the political power of the Orange Lodges, and has made foolish statements, which, we do not doubt, he regretted afterwards. If he would come boldly into the open and denounce religious bigotry, as it ought to be denounced, he would make an enormous impression, not only on his own people in the North, but also on the Roman Catholic minority, which is labouring under a sense of grievance, and tends to go to violent extremes. The situation is so grave that no responsible Government could afford to treat it lightly. Northern Ireland has so much of which to be proud that its rulers ought not to rest until they have got rid of the one really black spot on the province's escutcheon.

Italy's Adventure

The news of the week-end leaves little doubt concerning Signor Mussolini's Abyssinian policy. According to "authoritative statements" from Rome, he wishes one of two things: either Abyssinia must become a protectorate of Italy, or he will do his best to conquer the country and place it under full Italian sovereignty. Nothing less, we are told, will satisfy the Duce's ambition. His idea of a protectorate implies Italian control of the whole of Abyssinia, except for the large central area that surrounds Addis Ababa, where the native monarchs would be permitted to enjoy their shorn splendour. It is certain that the Abyssinians, who have been for so long an independent race, and even to-day are one of the most warlike nations on earth, will reject this solution of their present difficulties. The alternative, therefore, is war. Signor Mussolini is determined that on this occasion his country will not be caught at a disadvantage in Abyssinia, and every day, while this and that negotiator endeavour to postpone the inevitable conflict, Italian troops and armaments are being poured forth upon the wharves of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. If he had not suspected hitherto that a campaign against Abyssinia involved appalling difficulties and dangers, Signor Mussolini must have learned it by now—before his men have advanced a pace into the threatened country. The heat at Massowa reaches 122 degrees in the shade, and so great is the scarcity of water that the troops are being restricted to two pints apiece daily. Observers, indeed, are questioning whether the majority of the Italian soldiers will be able to maintain their moral until October 1st, when the campaign is expected to open.

Meanwhile, the other nations are content to act as spectators. Since Mr. Anthony Eden failed to allure Signor Mussolini from his purpose, Britain has refused to bestir herself further. Sir Samuel Hoare's speech in the House of Commons last Thursday has been received in Italy in a light in which, we think, it was not intended—as an acknowledgment of Italy's claim for room to expand. France, to all appearances, sympathises with the Italians. Germany maintains a sinister quiet; for she stands to gain in two ways from Signor Mussolini's preoccupation with Africa. In the first place, it will turn Italian eyes from the Austrian border, thereby allowing freer rein to Germany's agitation for an Austrian Anschluss. In the second place, if Signor Mussolini can make good his claim to Italian colonies, Germany's demand for the return of her own confiscated colonies will derive strength from the example. Furthermore, if a European war, in which Germany and Italy should find themselves on the same side, should occur within the next few years, Germany would find a clear road to her one-time colonies through Italy and Italian Abyssinia. It is little wonder, indeed, that Britain has found such scant support for her attempts to settle the dispute. Doubtless, she could disorganise Italy's entire machinery of invasion by closing the Suez Canal to troop-ships; but the result of such interference might well be another world war. Considering all these things—the apathy of continental Europe, and the danger of single-handed action, Britain herself seems to be losing interest; and it is significant that the violence of the Italian Press against her is showing signs of abatement.

In point of fact, there is one authority, and one alone, that possesses an unreserved right to intervene in Signor Mussolini's projected war. That authority is the League of Nations. Not for the first time in its history the League is on the horns of a dilemma. If it refuses to intervene, the last shreds of its prestige must disappear. In succession, Italy, Japan and Germany have snapped their fingers at Geneva; and, if Italy is permitted to repeat her defiance with impunity, the League will have proved itself incapable of its high functions, and will dwindle into an international bureau for the compiling of statistics on labour conditions and the drug traffic. On the other hand, if it tries to impose a check on Italy, it comes face to face with a host of problems. Italy, in such an event, certainly will resign her membership of the League, even if the consequences should be her economic blockade and all the various "sanctions" which Geneva forbore to invoke against Japan and Germany. A League of Nations which did not include the United States, Germany, Italy and Japan would have little claim to its title; it could not call itself even a League of European Nations. It seems, indeed, as if the whole question of nationalism versus effective internationalism will be determined by Geneva's handling of the problem that now confronts her. Her choice lies between indifference, which will permit her to survive, discredited and useless, or action against Italy, which may maintain her prestige, but will bereave her of all membership except that of Great Britain, France, Russia and the small nations. It is an unpleasant choice; and the fact that the League has been forced into it reveals, more clearly than anything else, to how small an extent the principles of the Covenant and of the Kellogg Pact have influenced post-war statecraft.

Electricity Supply

The annual report of the Electricity Supply Board, which has just been issued, shows that there still is a steady increase in the use of electricity. The number of units generated for the twelve months ending March 31st was 206,105,570, as compared with 185,383,327 for the preceding twelve months. The total number of consumers—103,037—has increased by over 11,000, new factories are taking additional current, new contracts for street-lighting have been obtained, and there have been other developments which enable the Board to congratulate itself on a very progressive year. As a result, the Board's finances have been strengthened; for the revenue increased by £108,707, and the accounts now show a surplus of £155,300. There is no reason, indeed, to think that the peak point has been reached yet; for many country districts in the Free State still are outside the E.S.B.'s network, and even in the towns there are obvious possibilities for development. The demand is bound to increase, and the question of supply is becoming important. Even at the present moment Ardnacrusha, which in theory is the basis of the whole system, cannot supply all the current that is needed. The steam generating stations at Dublin and Cork in 1934 were responsible for an output of 80,000,000 units in a total of 184,000,000, and, although this year their share of the work has been very much smaller, it is significant that new plant has been installed at the Dublin Pigeon House. To provide for the future, there will have to be a development in the sources of supply, and the E.S.B. soon will have to decide on the form which the development will take. One would be an extension of the Shannon Scheme—already provision has been made for additional water storage at Lough Allen and Lough Ree—but it is a question whether the same result would not be obtained more cheaply if the Liffey were used instead of the Shannon, as proposed in the "Griffith-Moynihan-Kettle" scheme. Both the E.S.B. and the Dublin Corporation are considering whether they will make use of the Liffey, and their decision will be awaited with interest.

The Questing Spirit

The latest and most ambitious of efforts to probe the stratosphere has just failed. It was made under the joint auspices of the National Geographical Society and the United States Army Air Corps, and the balloon which was to carry the chosen airmen—Captain Albert Stevens and Captain Orvil Anderson—cost £35,000, and is said to be the largest balloon yet made. On Friday morning last, after the adventurers had been waiting over a week for suitable conditions, it was announced that the weather forecast was favourable. Unhappily, while the gondola actually was being attached to the huge balloon the balloon burst, and its 375,000 cubic feet of helium escaped. Nobody was injured, but five men were compelled to jump for their lives before the mass of collapsing fabric settled upon them. High hopes had been set upon this expedition, whose participants had been expected to reach a height of fifteen miles, and to make extremely valuable investigations into the nature of the stratosphere at that level. The work, however, will not cease through discouragement. All the history of exploration—on and under the earth, across and under sea, in and above the air—is a record of success after sometimes innumerable disappointments. There will be more money to finance further flights, and there will be brave men to undertake the dangers of this most perilous adventure. After the collapse, a year or two ago, of the great Russian balloon whose occupants rose higher above the earth than ever man had risen before them, a decline in the supply of volunteers for stratosphere exploration might have been expected; but there have been several flights since then, and there will be more. The questing spirit lives no less strongly to-day than it lived three hundred years ago. The earth's surface has yielded all, or nearly all, its secrets to mankind, and he will not be satisfied until he has laid bare what is hidden in the deeps underneath and within the limits of its envelope of air.

FRENCH NATIONAL DAY

DISTINCTION FOR MISS MARY RYAN

Yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of French National Day, the French Minister, Monsieur Pierre Guerlet, held a reception to members of the French Colony in Ireland at the French Legation, Ailesbury road, Dublin.

Mons. Guerlet expressed his pleasure in seeing among his compatriots the members of the committee of the Dublin French Society. The Minister announced that the President of the French Republic had been pleased to confer the cross of "Chevalier de Légion d'Honneur" on Miss Mary Ryan, Professor of Romance Languages in University College.

"The services," he said, "rendered by Miss Ryan during the past twenty-five years in the diffusion of our culture are too well known for it to be necessary to enumerate them to-day. She carries on her task with admirable intelligence, insatiable devotion, praiseworthy disinterestedness, and extreme modesty. It is right that she should receive some testimony of our gratitude. I congratulate her whole-heartedly and take this opportunity of presenting her with the brévet of our order."

Continuing, Mons. Guerlet said that during his holiday in France he had the opportunity of sharing more closely the preoccupations of his countrymen.

"Certainly our economic and financial situation is serious, but it is easy to state the difficulties with which we have to contend; they are still far from being as grave as in many other countries. This fact ought to guard us against an exaggerated pessimism. Have we not already emerged victorious from more difficult and more dangerous situations than that in which we find ourselves to-day? Moreover, it is up to us to show the world that France is sensible enough and strong enough to overcome peril under a régime of liberty. To do this it is sufficient to suppress abuses and to impose on ourselves the necessary sacrifices. Our Government has resolutely undertaken this course. It will succeed if we give it our confidence.

"In the sphere of international politics France is guided above all by her ideal of peace, and by her loyalty to the principles of the League of Nations. It is only fair to admit that despite so many international vicissitudes her diplomacy is based on such a desire for continuity, and on a scrupulous respect of her pledged word."

Professor Mary Ryan, in replying to the presentation, said she was very honoured indeed.

"I am very glad to have tried, and, perhaps, to some extent, have succeeded in extending to other Irish people the benefit of contact with the best side of French thought."

Miss Ryan further expressed thanks to those of her friends whose efforts had resulted in the French Government taking cognisance of her endeavours.

Among those present were:—Dr. Coffey, representing University College, Dublin; Professor Walter Starkie, representing Dublin University; Mons. Jammet, representing the French Colony.

LEOPARDSTOWN RACES

A GOOD ATTENDANCE

The Leopardstown Races were the venue of many city dwellers last Saturday afternoon as being a pleasant way of enjoying a little fresh air, combined with the exciting sport of racing. There was quite a good gathering in the members' enclosure. The afternoon was dull and stuffy, with little sunshine, and visitors watched the races from the seats arranged on the lawn. Between the races ice cream waiters were kept busy supplying people with ices at the shady side of the parade paddock.

Light silk frocks were the choice of almost every woman present. A great many spotted crêpe-de-Chine ensembles, in shades of navy blue or black and white, looked smart on their wearers. Cool and summer-like were some suits in pale-green linen, while a couple of scarlet toilettes gave a touch of colour to the scene. Wide, shady hats of toque and coarse straws accompanied these light attires, some of which were encircled with dyed ostrich feathers.

LONDON LETTER

"NEW DEAL" PROPOSALS

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

THE feature of the political world this week will be the publication of Mr. Lloyd George's unemployment proposals, and the comments of the Government upon them. It is understood that the reason why the Government has rejected Mr. Lloyd George's ideas is that they would have interfered with the Government machinery for dealing with unemployment, in regard to housing and slum clearance. Mr. Lloyd George hopes to secure a day in the House of Commons for a debate on the subject, and it is probable that his request will be granted by the Prime Minister.

The Depressed Areas

The report of the Commissioners for the Depressed Areas is to be published in the course of the week, and a very interesting document is expected. The book will give details of the inquiries made during several months by the Commissioners, and will also submit plans which have been carefully prepared. These plans will not be on any great scale, as it was never contemplated that the state of affairs in the areas could be changed by any swift spectacular action. Consequently, the function of the Commissioners has been to find means whereby hope may be revived, and to propose enterprise of a stimulating character, which, though small at first, will ultimately have a big cumulative effect.

Parliament's Programme

The Imperial Parliament is to be adjourned on August 2 until the autumn, when it will reassemble for an important programme dealing with unemployment. The new unemployment insurance regulations will be introduced, and insurance of agricultural workers based on the recommendations of the Beveridge Committee will be considered. Parliament will probably be summoned for a meeting early in November, but the Speaker will be given power to call the House of Commons together earlier in the event of any emergency, similar power being given to the Lord Chancellor in regard to the House of Lords.

Meat Imports

Legislation extending the payment of the beef subsidy, which Mr. Walter Elliot is to introduce in the House of Commons to-morrow, is intended to give the Government time to work out the details of a long-term policy with regard to meat. To-morrow's measure will extend the subsidy to October, 1936. This will give a further sixteen months for a scheme to be arranged which will receive the approval of producers at home, in the Dominions, and in foreign countries. Despite lengthy negotiations, no such agreement is yet in sight; but further efforts are to be made by the Government, and, if the principle of the levy is not accepted, it may be necessary to impose a tax on foreign imports. The proceeds of this tax would be allotted to the assistance of British farmers.

The Naval Review

Many members of the House of Commons will be present at the great Naval Review on Tuesday, but business will be carried on as usual, and the few members who remain at Westminster will discuss Home Office estimates. The members of the House of Lords will take a complete holiday, so that they may all attend the review if they so desire, while the Lord Chancellor will take leave of absence on Wednesday to attend the Fleet exercises. The Peers will make up for lost time by meeting on Monday, which is not a regular working day.

Town Planning

All this week the fourteenth International Housing and Town-Planning Congress will be held in London. The last time the Congress was held in London was in 1922, and the choice this year is due to the fact that England is concerned on a far bigger scale than ever before with housing and town-planning schemes. Such activities as slum clearance, the new Housing Bill for the abatement of overcrowding, and the projected plans for arterial roads, underground railways, and so on make this an interesting country just at present from the town-planning point of view. About a thousand delegates from all over the world will be given an opportunity to see housing schemes in the London area.

Shipbuilding Unions

Further negotiations between employers and representatives of the engineering and shipbuilding trade unions may be held later in the year to discuss various questions relating to hours and pay. The increase of two shillings a week is not regarded as sufficient by the unions, and a central committee is to be formed to consider the whole situation regarding the engineering and shipbuilding industries in Great Britain and in other countries. Apart from the question of wages, there are several other subjects which the committee is to consider, among them being a limitation of overtime piece-work rates and the working of night shifts. No representations are likely to be made to the employers' organisation until the general situation has been discussed by the central committee of the unions.

An Aeroplane Factory

Lancashire is to have a new centre for the manufacture of the largest type of aeroplanes. The Liverpool Corporation has decided to sell a site on the Speke estate, which surrounds the city's aerodrome, and the contract stipulates that an aircraft factory, to cost not less than £65,000, must be erected within twelve months. The site of the proposed factory, from which five or six machines will be turned out each week, is on the edge of the airport on the river front, and the Corporation has agreed to give the company the use of the municipal aerodrome for testing machines built or repaired in the factory. Work is expected to be provided eventually for several hundred men.

Warble Fly

The Minister of Agriculture will be asked to-morrow whether he will consider making an order prohibiting the entry at British ports during the months of February to June of cattle from Ireland which carry the characteristic lumps of the warble-fly maggot, and if he will make regulations for compulsory dressing of all cattle for warble-fly during these months in Great Britain.

CHILDREN CAUSE BIG BLAZE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

Two children playing with a box of matches were responsible for a serious fire which broke out last night in the fodder storehouses near the station at Halle. The matches set fire to a heap of straw and the flames ran rapidly through the building and then spread to a chemical stores, in which hundreds of iron flasks filled with oxygen were stored. The fire spread to several neighbouring sheds and was not put out until late last night. Five persons were injured in fighting the flames.

RENEWED RIOTING IN BELFAST

THREE MORE DEATHS AND MANY WOUNDED

LOOTING, WRECKING AND INCENDIARISM

TROOPS CALLED IN TO HELP POLICE

RIOTING was renewed in Belfast on Saturday night, when two young men were shot dead, and many others were admitted to the hospitals, suffering from shot and other wounds.

Wrecking, looting and burning of houses was continued in the York street area, and yesterday the trouble extended to the Sandy Row district.

So serious was the situation on Saturday night that the police alone were unable to deal with it, and the authorities called in the military forces.

Yesterday from an early hour the disturbed districts were held by combined forces of soldiers and police, while armoured cars stood by in case of need.

The situation towards curfew hour last night was easier.

An official statement last night gave the total casualties since Friday as four dead, including one woman, forty-two in hospital with gunshot wounds, and thirty-one with other injuries. Apart from those detained in hospital, however, numerous cases were treated externally, the patients being able, after treatment, to go home.

Since the official figures were issued, Thomas McDowell, of Silvio street, who was wounded on Friday night, has died, thus bringing the total deaths to five.

In the York street area twelve houses in all were set on fire, and thirty-eight wrecked or damaged, while in Sandy Row one shop was burned and two were looted and wrecked.

Sir Dawson Bates (Minister for Home Affairs), who was to have attended the Naval Review at Spithead, has cancelled his engagement, and is remaining at home in view of the state of the city.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED

The following is the official list of persons killed and wounded on Saturday night:—

The fifth death, that of Thomas McDowell, 36 Silvio street, off the Shankill road, occurred in the Royal Victoria Hospital late to-night. He was shot in the stomach on Saturday night.

There was one new casualty to-night, that of a seven-year-old girl, Kathleen Stewart, 51 North Thomas street. She was shot in the knee by a sniper's bullet whilst walking along Dock street.

Three further cases of arson were reported to-night, two private houses in North Thomas street and a shop in Apsley street (off Shankill road) being fired by mobs.

A REMARKABLE IMPROVEMENT

To-night the Chief Commissioner said that, taking the twenty-four hours' period, from the beginning of curfew last night, there had been a most extraordinary improvement in the situation, and it was obvious that curfew was the only remedy for this kind of trouble. There was comparatively little shooting to-day, and rival crowds did not come into conflict.

"The situation in the York street area" (said the Chief Commissioner) "appears to be well in hand—touch wood—due to the considerable number of police and armoured cars drafted into the district. In the South Belfast area, which includes Sandy row, attacks on isolated public-houses were made, and the number of tenders in this area has been increased."

To-night there are more than 30 persons in custody, including some for looting, ten for riot, and one firearms case.

It is learned that, in view of the serious situation in the city, the question whether the Royal Ulster Constabulary men will go to London for the King's Review will be considered to-morrow.

INCENDIARISM AND LOOTING

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Sunday

Belfast has spent a week end of terror. Shooting, which broke out on Friday night, continued at intervals throughout yesterday until nearly 9 o'clock p.m., when, instead of odd shots, fusillades rang through the York street area, and the wounded lay about the thoroughfares until the ambulances arrived and took them—sometimes four and five at a time—to the hospitals.

Curfew, re-imposed at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, closed an area of about a square mile around York street and the dock district from 10 p.m. until 6 o'clock this morning. The area was made wider than when the curfew was first imposed in May last. The decision to make the Order was taken at Stormont during the afternoon after a conference between the Inspector-General of the Royal Ulster Constabulary (Sir Charles Wickham), the City Commissioner (Mr. R. D. Harrison), and officials of the Ministry of Home Affairs.

At about 5 o'clock in the evening the first signs of looting became evident. A party of men rushed into a public-house in York road, and some, going behind the counter, struck the twenty-year-old assistant, Vincent Convery, with a bottle, knocking him to the floor. They took some money from the till and a few bottles of beer away with them. Convery was taken to hospital with an incised wound on his head.

Later in the night there was looting of public-houses in the Upper Shankill road district.

About an hour before curfew, when policemen, armed with rifles in addition to revolvers, were taking up their posts, a crowd of men from the Lower York street area forced their way through side streets into Earl street and Ship street, where they began to attack Roman Catholic houses. Fighting between the attackers and men and women trying to defend their homes became desperate. Frequent shots were exchanged, and when an armoured car swung into Dock street it was unable to proceed because of the injured scattered about the roadway.

MANY HOUSES BURNED

It was during this period that several houses were set on fire. The first fire call came from Earl street, and the brigade had hardly arrived when another house in the same street burst into flames. From this thoroughfare the brigade was called into Little York street, where one public-house and three private dwellings were burnt out. The Fire Brigade was hampered by having its hoses cut, and by the continued stone-throwing up and down the streets. Another house was set on fire in North Anne street—this occurring after curfew, despite the fact that the street was in the curfew area.

Altogether more than a dozen houses have been burned out during yesterday and to-day, and their occupants have been forced to seek shelter with friends and neighbours.

The Fire Brigade, since their first call to two private houses in Earl street, have been on continuous duty at fires in North Anne street, Little York street and Sandy Row.

During the fighting an unconscious man was lying on the roadway, when several men around him started to kick him. The man rolled over and over for several yards under the force of the kicks, before a fresh burst of shooting drove the assailants off. A few persons ran into the road and carried the man to the footpath to await the arrival of the ambulance.

Apart from the open shooting, which continued after curfew, despite the presence of the police, there were snipers at work on roofs around Fleet street, Ship street and Earl street.

STATEMENT BY AN EYE-WITNESS

An eye-witness of the outbreak stated that the trouble in Dock street started when an accordion band marched to the house of Edward Withers—who was killed on Friday night in Nelson street—playing the "Dead March." They left a wreath at the house, and marched on, playing "Onward, Christian Soldiers." At North

A CAMP IN COUNTY LOUTH

SURPRISE VISIT BY DETECTIVES

REVOLVERS AND RIFLES SEIZED

TWELVE MEN TAKEN TO DUNDALK

A DRAMATIC swoop by a big party of armed detectives from Dublin, and Civic Guards from various stations in the County Louth, yesterday morning, resulted in the surrounding of what is described as a Republican camp in County Louth, the detention of twelve men, and the capture of a considerable quantity of arms and ammunition.

The men arrested are all natives of the North of Ireland, and the majority of them are from Belfast. They are all young men.

The camp had been established in the mountainous district of Gyles Quay, fifteen miles from Dundalk, and about two miles inside the Free State border. It had been set up within the past few days, and it is said that since it was established the people living in the area heard shooting.

THE CAMP

Our Dundalk correspondent, who visited the Gyle's Quay district yesterday, was told the full story of the raid.

About eighty men were in the camp, which consisted of six bell tents and a couple of others. The camp had been placed near the mouth of the little river at Piedmont, and was more than half a mile from the main road between Dundalk and Carlingford.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning a large party of police and detectives suddenly arrived in the district. From Riverstown they travelled along both banks of the river, and converged on the camp.

CAMPERS SURPRISED

Many of the campers were out in the fields at the time, and they were surprised to find themselves covered with revolvers and ordered to put their hands up. They complied with the order.

A small party in another portion of the field suddenly found themselves covered by another detachment of armed detectives, and they, too, surrendered.

The people of the district state that some shots were fired, but there is no confirmation of the report that there was an exchange of shooting. The detectives fired some shots, apparently to attract all the men from the tents.

Twelve of the men were put into a waiting motor lorry, on which, under a strong armed guard, they were removed to Anne street barrack, Dundalk.

TENTS SEARCHED

A search of the place resulted in the police finding six Lee-Enfield rifles, two Mills' bombs, a number of revolvers, and a considerable quantity of ammunition of various kinds, as well as some documents.

As the men detained were being driven through Dundalk they enlivened the town by their singing of songs and cheering loudly for an Irish Republic.

The names of the men who are detained are:—William Mulholland, Charles Leddy, Sean Macundlah, Brian Burns, John O'Hara, George Broderick, John Brown, William Rice, Peter Doherty, Patrick O'Hara, Liam O'Connor and James Hardy.

During the day the men were detained in Anne street barrack under a strong guard.

It is learned that they are being detained under Article 2A of the Constitution, under which they may be detained for thirty-six hours without charge.

SCENES IN DUNDALK

SEVENTY MEN ARRIVE ON BICYCLES

There were exciting scenes in Dundalk last night, following the arrival of the twelve men. Shortly after 9 o'clock a large number of men, estimated at seventy, entered the town from the North and on bicycles. In the centre of the town they stacked their bicycles, and then paraded through the principal streets in formation, ending up at Anne Street Barrack, where the twelve men were detained.

They indulged in a good deal of singing and cheering, and their calls were responded to by some of the detained men who were in the upstairs portion of the barrack.

POLICE CHARGE

Detectives and Civic Guards approached the demonstrators and asked them to disperse. They refused, and the police, aided by others who had been on duty in the barrack, charged the party. There was some hand-to-hand fighting, in the course of which some of the demonstrators were hit, and a detective sustained a nasty cut on the face.

The detectives then fired some shots in the air, and at once the demonstrators broke and ran in several directions. The main party, which had run further up Anne street, re-formed, but passed to the centre of the town through Dublin street. The party afterwards was joined by others, and after a further demonstration at the Market Square they left the town on their bicycles.

One young man, whose name is given as Bennett, with a Portadown address, was taken to the barrack.

POLICE ACTIVITY

Following the scenes there was great police activity in Dundalk.

The demonstrators are believed to be the remainder of the men who had been in the camp yesterday morning when it was visited by the police.

BELFAST DOCTOR DROWNED

BATHING ACCIDENT IN COUNTY DERRY

Dr. Samuel Ernest Picken, of Bristow Park, Belfast, was drowned at Castlerock, County Derry, last night while bathing with his wife and a Scottish visitor, Mr. John B. Macquiston, of Glasgow.

Mrs. Picken and Mr. Macquiston left the water, and when they looked back Dr. Picken had disappeared. His body was recovered later by a beach attendant.

It is believed that Dr. Picken, who was 45, had had a heart attack.

BRITISH AIRMAN'S MISHAP

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUDAPEST, Sunday.

A British airman, Flight-Lieutenant Shaw, and a London business man, whose name is given as Mr. Crossland, were slightly injured to-day. Lieutenant Shaw's 'plane collided with another British machine while taking off from Mezokovesd in the course of a "flying picnic" in Hungary, in which a number of British airmen are taking part.

QUIET DAY IN PARIS

BIG POLITICAL DEMONSTRATIONS

RIVAL PARADES KEEP WELL APART

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

KEPT apart by a barrier of 100,000 steel-helmeted police armed with carbines, 300,000 men, women and children demonstrated against Fascism in the "East End" of Paris this afternoon, while 200,000 Fascists attended a ceremony of rekindling the flame on the tomb of the Unknown Warrior in the "West End."

The peace was not broken.

The demonstrators of the Popular Front—Radicals, Socialists and Communists—marched with flags and banners three miles from the Place de la Bastille to Vincennes. There was not a single policeman on the route, for the organisers had promised to preserve order.

From time to time they shouted slogans, such as: "To the Gallows with La Rocque" (Colonel de la Rocque, regarded as head of the French Fascist Leagues), "Down With War," and "Soviets Everywhere."

It was curious to see red flags and sickle emblems borne by Revolutionary Communists side by side with the tricolours of the bourgeois Constitutional Radicals.

PILED CARBINES

In the side streets, not far from the route, were unostentatiously massed platoons of mobile guards with piled carbines.

The procession took about four hours to reach its destination.

Before this Popular Front demonstration more than 5,000 members of the Left parties attended a "congress of peace and liberty" at the Buffalo Stadium. They listened to anti-Fascist orations.

The march of the Croix de Feu and other Fascist Leagues from the Bois de Boulogne to the Arc de Triomphe was carried out with perfect discipline. The Leagues were cheered by spectators, who also raised shouts of "Vive la France" and 'Vive la Rocque."

NO INCIDENTS

There were no incidents, and the ceremony of re-kindling the flame on the tomb of the Unknown Warrior went according to programme.

M. Laval requested the organisation on this occasion to hold the function on July 14 as a counter-part to the Popular Front demonstration. In this way the police were given an opportunity to keep the rivals apart—a measure which had its reward in the unbroken peace of this afternoon.

The day began with an official ceremony—the annual military review, in which President Lebrun and the Ministers of the Defence Departments took the salute at the Arc de Triomphe. A vast crowd attended, including Prime Minister Laval and his Cabinet and the Diplomatic Corps.

A novel feature of to-day's review was the fly past, low over the city, of 600 military aeroplanes. The crowds filling the streets cheered themselves hoarse as the huge flight of machines roared through the cloudless sky.

"NO ITALIAN ZONE"

ABYSSINIA TO RESIST

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

"In no circumstances will we accept a railway or other zone in or through Ethiopia administered or policed by Italy," says the Emperor Haile Selassie in a special cable from Addis Ababa to the New York Times.

"History teaches that the creation of such zones is inevitably followed by annexation." That is the reason given by the Emperor for his refusal.

"We shall continue our efforts to secure a peaceful settlement in conformity with the Kellogg Pact and the Italo-Ethiopian Treaty of 1928," adds the Emperor.

"Only if these fail and when Italy commences a further invasion of Ethiopian territory will we offer armed resistance in defence of our political independence and territorial integrity, leaving to Italy the odium of her repudiation of international obligations."

An Abyssinian crocodile weeping on a League of Nations table which has been deserted by all its members is one of the cartoons in the provincial Press reflecting the Italian view on Abyssinia, says a Rome message. Another is an agitated Abyssinian trying to obtain a long-distance call from Addis Ababa to London and failing to get an answer.

Both cartoons represent the feeling created in Italy by Sir Samuel Hoare's statement in the House of Commons. The possibility of a League meeting to discuss the Italo-Abyssinian conflict is ignored by the Press, as it is also in official quarters.

"ESSENTIAL PART OF FASCISM"

THE COMING WAR

Signor Giuseppe Bottai, Governor of Rome, has written an important article for the Politica Sociale, which argues that Italy's colonial venture is an esentisal part of the Fascist and corporative theory of development.

It is one of the first occasions on which one of the Fascist leaders has referred in such definite terms to the fact that a colonial war is being undertaken by Italy.

The article is entitled: "Abyssinia: A Revolutionary Undertaking." He says:

"While colonial wars of the last century were typical wars of free trade capitalism for the economic system—that is, in which each was free to think exclusively of his own inteersts, the colonial war which Italy is about to undertake is the first war of Fascist corporativism—in this sense, that in the political field it is being undertaken by Italians organised in the Fascio with unity of spirit, and in the economic field all interests participate, organised in the corporative state and with unity of profit."

ELEVEN PERSONS DROWNED

'BUS OVERTURNS INTO CANAL

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ANTWERP, Sunday.

Eleven persons, including the driver, were drowned to-day when a motor 'bus overturned into a canal at Turnhout. The driver had endeavoured to avoid a cyclist.

There were twenty passengers on the 'bus at the time of the accident. Ten of them were saved. All belonged to Willebrouck, near Antwerp, and were on their way home from a day's excursion to Baerle-Hertog, in Holland.

SAD ACCIDENT FOR AUSTRIA

CHANCELLOR IN CAR CRASH

WIFE KILLED AND SON INJURED

PRINCE STARHEMBERG IN CONTROL

HERR VON SCHUSCHNIGG, the Austrian Chancellor, was slightly injured, but his wife was killed, when the car in which he and Frau Schuschnigg and their nine years old son, Kurt, were riding was involved in a collision near Linz on Saturday.

Investigations by car experts yesterday (says Reuter) have revealed that the accident was occasioned by a defect in the steering wheel, which caused the Chancellor's car, while travelling at a high speed, to skid and crash into a tree.

It is emphasised that the accident was not due in any way to an act of sabotage, as hinted in some newspapers. Austria was absolutely quiet yesterday, and the tragedy is not expected to have any political repercussions.

The Chancellor will probably take leave of absence until he has recovered from the shock, and Prince Starhemberg, who has returned from Venice by special aeroplane at the summons of the Cabinet, will temporarily take over the post of head of the Government.

The chief significance of this, as generally interpreted in Vienna, will be a further increase in the influence of the Heimwehr, or pro-Fascist, parties in the Cabinet.

TRAGIC TASK

The tragic news of the death of Frau Schuschnigg was conveyed to her little son by Herr von Schuschnigg himself yesterday morning.

Kurt had received facial injuries, and was taken to the hospital at Linz, where he remained all the evening and night in a semi-conscious condition. In the morning the crisis passed, and the boy fell asleep, but on awakening his first question was for his mother. She was lying only a few hundred yards away in state in the Carmelite church.

The Chancellor himself undertook the sad task of breaking the news. Pale and haggard after a night of anguish, and with deep shadows under his eyes, he went into his son's room.

"Where is mother?" asked the boy anxiously.

"She cannot come just now; she is hurt," replied his father.

The boy looked into his father's face and understood.

Turning back, he buried his head in his pillow and broke into bitter tears.

His condition, though not dangerous, has taken a turn for the worse.

Meanwhile the chauffeur of the car, who was first reported to have died, is still holding out, and, though critically injured, the doctors now think that there is a possibility of his recovery.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

ITALY, ABYSSINIA AND THE LEAGUE

The Times observes in a leading article on the Italo-Abyssinian dispute:—If the chance of averting hostilities is even now but faint, the reason is not to be found in any weakness or ineptitude of British policy, but in the obstinacy of Signor Mussolini. In no country of the world, except, perhaps, his own, is there the slightest sympathy with his plan to subjugate Ethiopia, without having first had recourse to peaceful methods in order to effect his purpose, whatever it may be. Italian aims and grievances have not yet been officially so much as stated in detail. Rome gives the appearance of simply wanting to seize Abyssinia. Every one, on the other hand, is quite prepared to admit frankly that, in fact, the Abyssinians have not been ideal neighbours for adjacent territories, including Italian Somaliland and Eritrea.

The aim of civilising a backward people is not one with which this country is likely to quarrel, but the issue is clearly complicated by Abyssinian membership of the League of Nations, and in any case a brutal and unprovoked assault would be a singular manner in which to set about the work of civilisation. The British Government, at any rate, cannot possibly ignore the Abyssinian appeal to the League. Great Britain, it will be remembered, was by no means anxious, in the first place, that Abyssinia should be elected a member. It was largely Italian insistence that obtained her admission. It would, therefore, be flagrantly inconsistent for Italy to think now of proposing the expulsion of Abyssinia just as it would be perfectly consistent for Great Britain to demand that certain long overdue reforms should be carried out in order that Abyssinia might prove her title to retain her membership.

If the Council is compelled by its own previous resolution to reassemble in about ten days' time the only business officially before it will be the appointment of a fifth arbitrator. This rather useless agendum will, nevertheless, give the opportunity to the Ethiopian envoy to make a statement of his whole case to the League if he so chooses, and the Council may then be called upon to discuss all the grave issues at stake. It is a matter of manifest importance, therefore, that the British Government should seriously consider now whether a constructive proposal cannot be made to establish some sort of harmony between the aims of Italy and the work of the League, which, by the Covenant, is enjoined, among other things, to secure fair and humane conditions of labour in all countries.

MENTAL HOSPITAL FIRE

£1,000 DAMAGE IN ARMAGH

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ARMAGH, Sunday.

Damage estimated at £1,000 was caused by a fire which broke out this evening at the Armagh City Mental Hospital.

The outbreak occurred in the nurses' rooms at the Isolation Hospital, and the Armagh Fire Brigade was summoned and promptly turned out.

They succeeded with difficulty in confining the outbreak, but not before two roofs had caved in.

SIX PERSONS PERISH IN FLAMES

FOURTEEN OTHERS JUMP TO SAFETY

DUTCH AIR LINER CRASHES

TWO PASSENGERS AND FOUR OF CREW TRAPPED

TWO British passengers and four members of the crew perished when a Dutch air liner crashed on the Schiphol Aerodrome, near Amsterdam, yesterday, and burst into flames.

Two other British occupants were injured and taken to hospital. The 'plane carried five crew and fifteen passengers, six of whom were British.

The cause of the accident appears to have been that the port engines failed. The machine made a forced landing outside the aerodrome, ran into a dyke, and went on fire.

Thirteen passengers and one member of the crew scrambled or were pulled out of the burning wreckage.

BRITISH VICTIMS

The wrecked machine was the 9.35 a.m. Royal Dutch air liner from Amsterdam to Malmo, Sweden, connecting with the 7 o'clock 'plane from London, by which six British passengers had taken through bookings.

The machine just after leaving the ground developed engine trouble. The pilot turned back and made to land, but, as the 'plane was nearing the ground, one wing crashed heavily against the earth.

Immediately the 'plane burst into flames, and the horrified watchers rushed to the spot to drag out the passengers, thirteen of whom were saved.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

The following official statement was issued by the K.L.M. Company:—

"This morning the F22 CH-AJQ started from Schiphol at 9.30 a.m. to Hamburg, Copenhagen, and Malmo. In the take-off the two port engines decreased in revolutions and the machine made a forced landing outside the aerodrome, during which it ran into a dyke and was wrecked.

"Thirteen passengers and one member of the crew were saved, and four members of the crew are dead. The names of those saved are:—

"Mr. Joseph, Miss Appell, Mr. Fraser (passengers for Hamburg); Mr. Peter, sen., Mr. Pitel (passengers for Copenhagen); Mr. Gayffin, Mr. Combe, Mr. Faulkner, Mr. Freschow, Miss Heilstrom, Mr. Kalstedt, Mrs. Classen and Miss Classen (passengers for Malmo).

"The names of the dead members of the crew are:—Silberstein, commander; Nieboer, wireless operator; Brom, mechanic; Van Dyk, assistant mechanic.

The dead are believed also to include two passengers, Mr. Newman and Mr. Hobson. Both were passengers for Malmo."

THE VICTIMS

It was learned last night that Mr. H. C. Hobson lived at Copthorne, near Crawley, Sussex. Mr. W. E. Newman lived at Coulsdon Lane, Chipstead, Surrey. Mr. Hobson was 34 years of age and married. He was manager of Masonite, Ltd., and was travelling on business. Mr. Newman was aged about 40 and married, with two children. He was an accountant.

How some of the survivors leaped for their lives as they saw the machine coming heavily down to earth was told to Reuter's correspondent by one of the occupants, a Swede.

"Soon after the start," he said, "it seemed that the machine was unable to rise. The pilot did his utmost to make a good landing, but the wing of the machine collided with a dyke, and immediately the 'plane took fire. I and several other passengers, including two Englishmen, fortunately managed to jump out of the aeroplane just as the fire broke out in the fore part of the machine."

The wrecked aeroplane was a four-engined Fokker.

The English passenger, Mr. John Faulkner, who is lying injured in the Wilhelmina Hospital, is a director of the Finmar Company, Limited, of London. When he was brought to hospital it was discovered that his back was slightly injured. An X-ray examination was made, and it is believed that he has broken a rib. His condition is not at all serious.

Of the non-British passengers, only three were injured, and two of them were taken to hospital. One member of the crew, the steward, escaped unhurt.

Identification of the dead Englishmen was at first difficult, because the machine burst into flames after hitting the ground, and their bodies were badly charred. It is understood that the dead Englishmen were to have left the machine at Copenhagen.

WOMAN'S STORY

Mrs. Claasen, interviewed shortly after the crash, said: "Before I had time to realise what was happening I felt a terrible shock, and saw flames burst up in the fore part of the 'plane. Like most of the other passengers, I and my daughter jumped clear of the machine, which was soon one blazing mass.

"The heat was so intense that it was impossible to stay near the wreckage, and we hurried away as quickly as possible."

Watchers at the aerodrome who had seen the crash were rapidly on the spot, and assisted the rescued passengers, who were taken to the aerodrome hotel.

A number of the passengers continued their journey by train yesterday when they had recovered from the excitement.

OTHER DISASTERS

Previous air liner disasters during the past three years involving ten or more deaths were:—

KILLED BY SHOCK

A message from Amsterdam received early this morning states that it was ascertained that both Mr. Hobson and Mr. Newman were killed by shock before the machine caught fire.

DUBLIN MOTORIST KILLED

COLLISION WITH CYCLIST

Mr. Francis A. Gannon, aged 24 years, of Riverstown House, Rathfeigh, County Meath, was fatally injured in a motor accident at the junction of Templeogue road and Fortfield road, Dublin, on Saturday night. He was driving in a motor car with Mr. N. F. Draper, of Kingston Lodge, Rathfarnham, when it came into collision with a motor cycle ridden by Mr. J. Carey, Levere terrace, Harold's Cross road, Dublin.

All three men were admitted to the Adelaide Hospital, Dublin, but Mr. Carey and Mr. Draper, who were suffering from superficial bruises only, were discharged after treatment. Gannon, who died yesterday as a result of his injuries, was the younger son of Mr. B. Gannon, Gresham Hotel, Dublin, who is well known in the Dublin motoring trade.

Mr. Francis Gannon drove in the Bray motor race this year and finished second. He had also driven in the Phœnix Park, and had entered for both the Limerick and Tallaght motor races.

THE BOUNDARIES TRIBUNAL

SCOPE OF THE INQUIRY

SUGGESTED QUESTIONS FOR MINISTER

THE prominence given in our issue of Saturday to the appointment this week of a Statutory Tribunal to review the boundaries and administrative relationships of local authorities in County Dublin has caused widespread interest, and not a little surprise, in official as well as in commercial circles.

In the course of a special contribution upon the scope of the Tribunal's work, which appears in the current issue of the Irish Builder and Engineer, it is suggested that the Minister for Local Government should request answers to such specific questions as:—

(1). Were the boundaries fixed by the Act of 1930 for the city and borough of Dun Laoghaire such as to indicate intelligent anticipation of municipal needs and convenience in the light of then known tendencies; or would the boundaries recommended by the Greater Dublin Commission have more nearly accorded with subsequently demonstrated civic needs?

(2). Has the decision to divide responsibility for local government in the city and county between four independent local authorities been justified by experience; or would the creation of some such consultative or executive link as was suggested by the Greater Dublin Commission have tended towards greater convenience and efficiency?

ADMINISTRATION

(3). What, if any, recommendations can be now made as to such possible administrative adjustments as are foreshadowed in Section 101, Sub-section 3, of the Act of 1930 in reference to (a) alterations of administrative areas, (b) the establishment of joint local government or public health bodies for any two or more of the present administrative areas, or for the joint control of services within such areas?

(4). In what respect, and to what extent, has the passing of the Town and Regional Planning Act rendered closer administrative relationships desirable between local authorities in the city and county of Dublin?

(5). Does the need for large extensions of Greater Dublin's water supply resources and area of distribution call specifically for joint action by the existing authorities; or, in view of probable extensions of the supply area into Wicklow, Kildare and other adjoining districts, is the creation of a Metropolitan Water Board desirable?

(6). To what extent is a drastic revision of municipal boundaries, or the creation of a joint authority, desirable for the purpose of framing and executing a consistent plan of city, suburban and rural housing in Greater Dublin?

(7). Having regard to recent and prospective developments of road transport in the city and county, what, if any, recommendations can be made for its co-ordination and control?

ANTI-CATHOLIC CAMPAIGN

RELIGIOUS DIFFERENCES IN EDINBURGH

An anti-Roman Catholic campaign, including efforts to induce employers to dismiss Catholics, is threatened by Councillor John Cormack, of Edinburgh, leader of the Protestant Action Society, in a letter he has sent to the Most Rev. U. J. MacDonald, Roman Catholic Archbishop of St. Andrew's and Edinburgh.

The letter is a reply to the Archbishop's statement concerning disturbances during the recent Eucharistic Congress in Edinburgh and his reference to the "bitter persecution" of Catholic employés.

"This country is regarded as the key to Protestantism, and it was unwise, to say the least, that you should have entertained even the thought of a Eucharistic Congress, especially in the capital city," writes Councillor Cormack.

"Efforts have been made to induce employers to dismiss Catholics, and I am going all out to carry that still further. The campaign has only just started, but will soon be on its way, especially when next November comes, and I have a few more Protestant Councillors in the City Chambers. Then the following November, when I have a majority, you and your ilk will realise what real Protestant action means."

Councillor Cormack added that he objected to a statement made by the Archbishop, that the recent anti-Catholic manifestations had been by a mob of the lowest elements.

Mr. Cormack said that a large number of the best citizens were out protesting during the Congress.

The Archbishop in his letter referred to the "unreasoning storm of prejudice which had been raging in Edinburgh."

"For months past," he said, "Catholics have been subjected to a campaign of vilification, calumny and savagery that would be difficult to parallel in these days of enlightenment and progress. It has hardly been possible for a priest to appear in the city without being subjected to unspeakable indignities. In the factories and public works Catholic employés have suffered bitter persecution, and strenuous efforts have been made to induce employers to dismiss Catholics on the ground of their religion alone."

The Archbishop paid a tribute to the fair-mindedness of the bulk of the citizens of Edinburgh, and asked: "Can this mob rule be allowed to continue?"

SHOCK FOR YOUNG CHILDREN

MOTHER DEAD, FATHER INJURED

Two young children in the small Somerset village of Cleeve returned home from Sunday School yesterday to learn that their mother was dead and their father suffering from serious wounds to his throat.

The injured man, who now lies in Bristol General Hospital in a serious condition, is William Beavis Raines, of The Bungalow, Cleeve, aged about thirty-five. His wife, who is also stated to have had throat wounds, was also about thirty-five.

Yesterday was the birthday of one of the children, Barbara, aged nine, and she and her brother, Cecil, aged twelve, came home expecting to have some little friends at the house for a birthday party. They found, however, people surrounding the house, and were taken to their grandmother in a neighbouring village.

Raines had been employed for some years as a carter by Mr. Young, of Bishop's Farm, Cleeve. Police are now in charge of the bungalow.

ENGLISH CATHOLIC PILGRIMAGE

TELEGRAM FROM THE POPE

A large body of pilgrims recited a prayer to "Our Lady of Walsingham" as they knelt yesterday in a lane which passes the Slipper Chapel—the Walsingham, Norfolk. Most of the pilgrims were members of the Guild of Our Lady of Walsingham, and for the most part had made the journey by train from London. Fourteen, however, had badly blistered feet to remind them of their 120 miles pilgrimage on foot.

There was a procession about a mile long to a field adjoining the Slipper Chapel—so called because in the old days pilgrims used to remove their shoes there. Benediction was given from an altar by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Northampton (Right Rev. Laurence W. Youens). Nuns, monks, clergy and members of the general public mingled with members of the Guild, and many banners were carried.

A telegram was received, in which it was stated that the Pope sent his blessing to the members of the Guild.

PREPARING FOR AN ELECTION

LABOUR CRITICISM OF GOVERNMENT

APPEAL TO WORKERS AT DUBLIN MEETING

"THERE is no question but that there will be a general election before very many months. The Senate is going out of existence at the end of the year, a new Constitution is being drafted, and these things cannot operate unless the people generally have been consulted. We are setting out now in preparation for an election."

This statement was made by Mr. P. J. Quinn, one of the three sepakers who yesterday addressed an Irish Labour Party meeting at Inchicore, Dublin. The meeting was held to rally support for Mr. T. Lawlor, who has been selected by the party as their first candidate for the area.

"We want to make it clear," said Mr. Quinn, "that the Labour Party is an independent party, and has no connection whatever with either of the other two parties. We have, undoubtedly, supported the party in power for some time, off and on, but we have voted both for and against it. We voted with the Government when it was putting through items taken from the Labour Party programme. On the national question, the Labour Party has no alternative but to support the Government, because the Cosgrave Party is committed to the policy of remaining within the British Empire: in other words, they say that the blood and tears of the past seven hundred years were a mistake."

In criticising the Government, Mr. Quinn said that they were not going ahead fast enough with their economic policy; they were putting on tariffs when they should impose complete prohibition, and the Prices Commission was a "pure, absolute farce."

BILLS CRITICISED

The Chairman, Mr. W. J. Green (Railway Clerks' Association) said that it was a discredible thing that in Dublin, with its large number of deputies and large working-class population, there was not a single direct Labour representative in the Dail. The Irish Labour Party was as completely national in its outlook as any other party claimed to be, but Dublin workers were not sufficiently class-conscious; they did not look on the dignity of labour as they should. Working-class candidates were turned down for top-hatted doctors and lawyers, of whom they never heard between elections.

Mr. T. Lawlor (Municipal Employés' Organisation) said that there was more reason now than ever before in his life-time for working men and women to understand the necessity of organising politically. He criticised the "Industrial Bill" now going through the Dail, and said that if they were not very active they would find that that bill, which was apparently for their benefit, would only be guiding employés in their employers' interests. The Widows and Orphans Bill fell very far short of what was required; the widow only was to be given what was taken from the orphan.

Legislation was going to interfere in future with their every-day social life more than ever before, and would control them also in the factories, workshops and in the fields. He advised them to watch legislation very closely: otherwise they might wake up some morning and find that their trades unions, so successful in the past, had been so shackled as to be useless.

The attendance at the meeting was small.

REPUBLICAN MEETING

MADAME McBRIDE IN LIMERICK

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LIMERICK, Sunday.

Madame Maud Gonne McBride, addressing a big meeting under Republican auspices here to-night, said that there was only one practical policy for Ireland—a policy of complete independence. Complete national freedom was of vital importance to each individual, and was not only a poetic dream, but an economic necessity. They should realise, as Tom Clarke did, that they could not attain national sovereignty unless they were prepared to fight for it. The I.R.A. of to-day were what the Fenians were in another period.

Mr. Sean Lyddy (Cork) said that they could never have in Ireland a king's republic. The suppression of An Phoblacht was tyrannical, as was the treatment of Republican prisoners. If England became involved in another war the I.R.A. would see to it that Irishmen would not make gun fodder for her, and that Irish ports and harbours would not be maintained for her. Any nation at war with England would be regarded as Ireland's friend.

Mr. David Dundon and Mr. Thomas Malone (Limerick) also spoke.

ELECTROCUTED

HELD BY STRAP TO LIVE WIRE

A young electricity linesman, William Shaw, was, at Matlock, Derbyshire, yesterday, held by his safety waist strap to a live wire, with 11,000 volts passing through his body, while a fellow-worker about to climb a pylon to his rescue struggled with a spectator who frustrated his gallant, but dangerous, attempt.

Shaw was working on the top of a pylon with another linesman named Ridge, and in some way made contact with the current electrifying the whole pylon. Ridge was thrown many feet to the ground, where he was picked up unconscious, suffering from burns, but Shaw was held in position by his safety strap.

A third linesman, named Herbert Bowler, who was on the ground at the time, dashed to climb the pylon, but was restrained from doing so, as the power was still on. When the current had been cut off police climbed the pylon and brought down, with considerable difficulty, the body of Shaw, whose face had been burned black.

MR. FRED PERRY

NO COMMENT ON ENGAGEMENT RUMOUR

Mr. Fred Perry, the lawn tennis champion, interviewed at Eastbourne last night, would make no reference to a report that there was a possibility of his engagement to Miss Helen Vinson, the Hollywood film star.

Miss Vinson, who has been staying at Eastbourne, also declined to say anything about the rumour. They left Eastbourne last night.

Mr. Perry is due to return there to-day to take part in the Davis Cup team training, which includes a match with the Australian Davis Cup team.

Miss Vinson is a clever young Hollywood blonde, who is in England to make a picture, with Noah Beery and Conrad Veidt, called "King of the Damned," a melodrama of Devil's Island.

EVERYBODY'S TASK

DUKE AND JUBILEE TRUST

The Duke of Gloucester emphasised last night that it was everybody's task to make King George's Jubilee Trust a driving force.

"I heard a story the other day," he said, "of a boy who went into a shop and said: 'Please, I want a halfpenny worth of toffee, and I want a halfpenny change, and I will bring the penny to-morrow.'"

The Duke, who was addressing the annual conference of the National Association of Boys' Clubs at Manchester, added:—

"I hope that none of you is adopting this expectant attitude towards Jubilee Trust. It is not going to lighten our burden."

There were apathy, negligence and ignorance among many sections of the general public. It was everybody's task to see that this Jubilee year marked a new epoch.

THE BELFAST RIOTS

Anne street, when they were passing to Earl street and North Thomas street, the fighting broke out.

"Father McSparran, of St. Joseph's Church," the eye-witness said, "came out into the street, and begged the police in the armoured cars to do something. But still the fighting went on, with people wrestling with the police in an effort to tear their rifles away from them. Some men drew revolvers and fired from behind the screen of Royal Ulster Constabulary men. Then everyone seemed to go mad. Sections of the crowd forced their way into the houses of Catholics and chased the occupants into the street in their night attire. It was then that the houses were set on fire. In Dock lane, virtually all the people have abandoned their homes and are living with people in other parts of the area."

SOLDIERS CALLED OUT

An emergency call was sent out to country districts, and police were being rushed in by omnibuses and special trains. This seemed to have little effect, and, following a conference between the City Commissioner (Mr. R. D. Harrison) and the General Officer Commanding the Northern Ireland District (Major-General E. S. Girdwood), soldiers were called out shortly before midnight. One hundred and fifty men of the Border Regiment were brought into the city from Holywood in Royal Army Service Corps trucks. They were wearing their full fighting kit, including steel helmets, and toured the disturbed areas before parading outside police headquarters in Chichester street. Isolated shots were still being fired, but the appearance of the soldiers seemed to have a steadying effect, and the streets were cleared considerably.

At about 1.30 o'clock this morning members of the York Orange Lodge, who had been on an excursion to the Isle of Man, returned to Belfast, and were met on the quayside by scores of police and a couple of armoured cars, which, with cage cars, sped through the streets while the excursionists were getting to their homes.

LOOTING RENEWED ON SUNDAY

In the early hours of the morning the City Commissioner announced that to-day the military forces would join the police in preserving the peace in the York street area, and the joint force would be under the control of Lieutenant-Colonel Eastwood, O.C. Belfast Area. When curfew was raised at six o'clock this morning men of the Border Regiment were on duty—a khaki-uniformed soldier with steel helmet and bayonet fixed standing at each street corner in the worst districts beside a Royal Ulster Constabulary man. They were powerless, however, to stop the sniping, which broke out again in Dock street and North Thomas street while people were on their way to Mass at St. Joseph's Church, and armoured cars were again called out. As far as could be ascertained, nobody was injured at that time.

Shortly afterwards a house was invaded and wrecked in Little York street, but the raiders got away before the police arrived. Sir Charles Wickham (Inspector-General of the Royal Ulster Constabulary) and County Inspector Gilfillan made a tour of the city with Army officers.

In the licensed premises of Mr. Francis McQuaid, of 60 Earl street, Belfast, which were attacked and looted to-day by a crowd of 200 persons, the cash register, and even the gas meter, was smashed open and the money stolen. Not a single bottle remained unbroken, and the bungs in the casks were pulled out.

The occupants of the rooms upstairs were driven to the street, carrying some of their belongings with them. The premises were then set on fire, but soldiers arrived before the flames got a good hold, and dispersed the crowd.

Desultory firing has continued throughout the day, and several instances of looting public-houses have been reported. More soldiers are being drafted into the city. The 60th Regiment—the King's Royal Rifles—which was in training at Ballykinlar, has returned to the Victoria Barracks, and detachments are being put out on the streets.

This evening the Mater Hospital stated that the condition of Miss Teresa Johnson, who was shot through the chest at the doorway of her home in Fleet street on Friday night, is critical. The other critical cases are Head-Constable Emerson, leg fractured by a bullet, and Edward Brady, of Forrest street, who was shot through the head and chest last night.

Six arrests were made during the night, and others have been following throughout the day. Charges will be preferred against the arrested persons in the Custody Court on Monday morning.

REFERENCES IN THE CHURCHES

In a number of the Protestant churches this morning the destruction of Roman Catholic property was condemned from the pulpit, and the congregation were asked to ignore all efforts to intensify party feelings, to keep indoors, and to do everything possible to restore peace.

The Rev. Samuel Cochrane, minister of Sinclair Seamen's Presbyterian Church, which is in the area where the most serious disorders occurred, speaking at to-day's Service, expressed regret at the sparse attendance, and sympathised with the relatives of the persons who had been shot on Saturday night. He urged all present to use their influence to support the police and military, who were doing their very best to restore law and order and so avoid further bloodshed.

In St. Joseph's Church a special meeting of representative Roman Catholics was held this afternoon to make provision for the people rendered homeless by the rioting.

The Rev. Father McKee, C.C., preaching in St. Patrick's Church this morning, said that appeals for peace had been made and had been flouted in many instances, but that should not discourage them in their prayers that peace would be restored to the city. Life had been taken and life was in danger, and, although they had the right to defend their lives and property if it were necessary, he counselled forbearance. He advised people to leave the protection of property to the police and the military, who were now in charge of the city.

At all Masses in St. Joseph's Church, which is the middle of the affected area, the Rev. J. McSparran, Adm., and the Rev. J. Lynch, C.C., appealed to the people to exercise patience under the trying conditions, and neither to give nor take offence. The Masses were attended by only about a third of the normal congregation, many people being afraid to leave their houses.

TOUR OF AFFECTED AREA

SOLDIERS SEPARATE RIVAL FACTIONS

A tour of the affected area revealed a scene of desolation in several of the back areas in the labyrinth of streets on both sides of York street. The streets in which the houses have been burned particularly indicated very vividly the violence of the mob. Armoured cars (whippets) and police tenders were patrolling the district, while at the corner of each street were stationed several policemen with rifles and a couple of soldiers with steel helmets and full kit. In contrast to this warlike display, women were standing at the doors of their houses, with children in their arms, discussing the night's scenes with their neighbours, while other children were playing about in the narrow streets. Crowds of youths were gathered at the street corners, and it was evident, notwithstanding the apparent peacefulness of the Sunday morning, that keen tension prevailed throughout the district.

To prevent further invasion of isolated Roman Catholic areas groups of soldiers were posted with the police between the Protestant and Catholic streets, while the armoured cars also were posted at points whence they could move rapidly to any point where the disturbances might be renewed. There were two armoured cars in North Queen street and several in York street outside the police barracks. A large force of police was drafted into the barracks from outside districts, and the military reserves were occupying an adjoining house. Earl street, the lower end of which adjoins the Catholic Pilot street-Garmoyle street area, was apparently a dangerous point, and a large force of soldiers and police was stationed here and also in Great George's street and the street abutting on to it.

EXCURSIONIST EXIT

Further along York street there was a scene of a different character. Thousands of people with attaché cases were hurrying to the Midland Railway Station to avail themselves of the many holiday excursions to Whitehead, Portrush, and Larne, which had been arranged by the railway company, and which the company decided to run, notwithstanding the disturbed condition of the York street area. Tramcar, motor and bicycle traffic was proceeding almost normally in York street, and hundreds of foot passengers were going either to their churches or towards the railway station. As they passed the corners of the streets running on to York street they gave hasty glances up or halted with curiosity to watch the soldiers and police and armoured cars in the side streets, while rival crowds stood hundreds of yards apart—the soldiers and police between them—and glared at one another. It was a curious mixture of something resembling civil war and holiday enjoyment.

During the afternoon soldiers followed two men into a house in the Catholic district and took them, with a heavy escort, to the police station. As the tender left the house it was followed by a jeering crowd. Among other arrests was one at Castle Junction.

Youths were arrested at bayonet-point to-night when they tried to seize rifles from the soldiers.

Many of the police have been on continuous duty for twenty-four hours and, while their comrades are on guard, they are snatching a few minutes sleep in the caged cars which are patrolling the streets.

Sir Dawson Bates, Minister of Home Affairs, was to have left Belfast this week for the Naval Review at Spithead, but has cancelled the engagement.

FIRE AND WRECK

TOLL UP TO SATURDAY NIGHT

The extent of the destruction wrought in the disturbed area is shown by the following list, completed up to Saturday night:—

NORTH ANNE STREET.—Seven houses burned, two of them being completely destroyed, and two houses wrecked.

EARL STREET.—Two houses burned extensively, six houses wrecked.

NORTH THOMAS STREET.—Fifteen houses wrecked, one of them looted.

DOCK LANE.—One house wrecked.

DOCK STREET.—St. Joseph's Club and eight houses wrecked, one of them bombed and another looted.

LITTLE YORK STREET.—Two houses extensively burned.

NEW DOCK STREET.—One house burned and seven wrecked, one of them looted.

CORPORATION STREET. — Three houses wrecked.

NELSON STREET.—One house burned, two wrecked.

TRAFALGAR STREET.—One house wrecked.

SANDY ROW.—Confectioner's shop set on fire and destroyed, public-house looted, and a herbalist's shop looted; here also an ice cream vendor was assaulted and his barrow overturned.

Also attempts were made to burn a house in New Dock street and one in Earl street.

The property which was looted includes two public-houses off Donegall Pass, and another the property of Messrs. Cohan, Ormeau road. An attempt was made to loot the public-house of Messrs. Lavery, Dublin road, but soldiers arrived and drove the crowd away.

HOUSE BOMBED

Mrs. Ellen Heatley, in describing the bombing of her house, 24 Dock street, said: "A mob of about a hundred gathered outside the house, and one of them threw a bomb through the parlour window. It exploded with a terrific noise, blew a hole in the floor, and wrecked the walls and all the furniture. Ten or twelve men then entered the house, and went through every room, breaking all they could see."

Mr. Heatley, who is an engineer, is at present in Workington, but their four young children, and two old people, one of whom is 81 years of age, were in the house.

"NIGHT OF HORROR"

POLICE UNABLE TO COPE WITH MOB

"I have never witnessed anything like last night," said one onlooker. "The brutality and the destruction were appalling. The police appeared to be completely unable to cope with the mob. The destruction was even carried on close to the armoured cars. It was a night of horror."

One man who saw the fighting stated that the trouble began in an informal "funeral service," which was held outside the home of Edward Withers, in Nelson street, at about 8.30 p.m. on Saturday. A band was gathered together, and the "Dead March" was played outside the door. As soon as this was finished the crowd came down Anne street into Garmoyle street, and trouble began in North Anne street. There were "Whippet" cars, armoured cars and a tender standing by, but the crowd flung stones through the windows, and looted the damaged houses. Many of them were seen carrying away household goods. The mob, he continued, went up North Anne street and into Earl street, and from that to North Thomas street, then on to Dock street. Catholic houses on the way were wrecked, looted or burned, and one of them was bombed. All the time, he said, the mob was jeering, shouting and firing revolvers.

A great number of Roman Catholic families sought refuge in Pilot street. In some houses there were as many as thirty people—women and children—all of them terror-stricken. In some cases the children had been driven out into the street naked.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S DISTURBANCES

PRISONERS IN COURT

Prisoners, some with bandages about their heads, were charged in the local Custody Court on Saturday with riotous behaviour as the result of the disturbances on Friday night. Fines of 40s. and costs were imposed in the cases of Robert Dornan, Boundary street; John McGeown, Hamilton street; Patrick Joseph Byrne, Alton street; Robert Joseph Lavery, North Queen street; Nicholas O'Neill, Hardinge street, who was alleged to have called on the crowd to attack the police; Alexander Cantwell, Lower California street, who persistently stoned an armoured car, according to police evidence; William Adgey, Crawford street, the ring-leader in the disturbances about the Markets area, according to a District Inspector who charged him; and Hugh Duffy, Dock lane, whose remark when arrested was: "I am getting tired now, but the fun was good while it lasted." All of these were ordered to enter into bail bonds to keep the peace.

Charged with the unlawful possession of firearms, Joseph McDonnell, Masserene street; Francis Coonan, Baker street, and Daniel Toner, Christian place, were remanded in custody for a week. District-Inspector Stratford opposed bail owing to the condition of the city.

Constable Robert Corbett, in evidence, said

OBITUARY

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL F. T. HIGGINS BERNARD

Lieutenant-Colonel Francis Tyringham Higgins Bernard, of Nether Winchendon House, near Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire, collapsed while playing tennis at his home on Saturday evening, and died almost immediately. He was aged 70. Colonel Higgins Bernard, who served in the Great War, in which he was wounded, won distinction in cricket and football in his early years. ATTEMPT TO DERAIL TRAIN

FOILED BY TASMANIAN DRIVER

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LAUNCESTON, Sunday.

For the second time in two months an attempt was made to-day to derail a train a few miles from Launceston. On both occasions the train was saved by the presence of mind of Driver William Fisher.

He was driving his train this evening when he felt a bump and immediately stopped. He then found the train had run into and splintered a number of sleepers which had been placed across the line. Driving on slowly Fisher found a dozen more sleepers at intervals for more than half a mile.

WOMAN FOUND GUILTY

WEYERHAEUSER KIDNAPPING CASE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TACOMA (WASHINGTON), Sunday.

Mrs. Margaret Waley, who, with her husband, has been on trial here for participating in the kidnapping of nine years old George Weyerhaeuser last May, has been convicted on both the charges against her—conspiring to kidnap the boy and violating the Lindbergh kidnapping law. The sentence will be delivered on Wednesday.

Mrs. Waley's husband, who was found guilty on June 22nd, got 45 years' imprisonment.

The jury held that the child had been transported across the State border to Idaho, thus making the offence a Federal one under the Lindbergh law, and that Mrs. Waley had participated actively in hatching the ransom plot.

JAPANESE MINE DISASTER

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TOKYO, Sunday.

Sixty-three coal-miners are buried deep down in the pits of the Mitsui Tagawa Colliery following a coal-gas explosion today. Crowds of anxious relatives are gathered about the pit mouth, but there is little hope of rescuing the entombed men.

BRITISH EX-SERVICE MEN IN BERLIN

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

Three thousand hands were raised in the Hitler salute and cries of "Heil" and "Hurrah" greeted the members of the British Legion who are visiting Germany as they came out of the Friedrichstrasse station here this afternoon.

The warmth of their welcome from the crowd of over 3,000 people, who, despite the broiling sunshine, had gathered to greet them, gave the British Legion delegates a foretaste of the enthusiastic reception they are likely to receive during their week's visit here.

that after hearing shots in Royal avenue on Friday night he saw McDonnell being chased by a hostile crowd. He joined the chase, and in arresting the youth actually had to rescue him from the crowd.

A statement by McDonnell, read in court, said that he had to thank the police that he was alive. "But I deserved it all. I may have killed somebody, and had a right to be killed. I am not denying that I used the gun. I only fired one shot." In another part of the statement McDonnell said that the revolver was "a wee one, with a silver handle," and that he threw it away after firing the shot.

Toner and Coonan both denied knowledge of the revolver and the shooting.

Two other young men—John Jackson, Henderson avenue, and Maynard Beatty, Shovell's Fort, Finaghy, were fined 40s. and 20s. respectively. Sergeant Bell told the court that he saw Jackson strike a woman down in Rosemary street, and when he was arrested Beatty came up and locked the sergeant's arms behind him, while Jackson hit him in the eye.

WEEK-END DEATHS IN ENGLAND

FATAL ROAD ACCIDENTS

BATHERS LOSE THEIR LIVES

Two men employed in the engineering department of the General Post Office at Cardiff received fatal injuries in a motoring accident at Crack Hill, on the main Cardiff-Bridgend road, late on Saturday night. They were travelling home in a sports car when, in the middle of the hill, there was a collision with a "baby" car.

The sports car overturned, both occupants being flung out. They died upon arrival at Bridgend Hospital.

The occupants of the small car escaped unhurt, though both vehicles were wrecked.

The two men killed were C. W. Clarke, lodging in Park place, Cardiff, whose home address was Chadwell, Essex, and Albert Edward Stone, of Coleridge road, Penarth, Glamorgan. Stone, who was married, with three children, was an inspector in the engineering department of the Cardiff Post Office. Clarke, who was unmarried, was an assistant engineer.

HUSBAND DEAD

WIFE IN HOSPITAL

A young married woman is lying in a critical condition in Oldchurch Hospital, Romford, Essex, unaware that her husband, with whom she was motor cycling to Southend yesterday, is dead.

The names of the couple are Stephen and Lily Davis, both aged about 24, of Globe road, Romford.

Mrs. Davis was riding pillion when their motor cycle came into collision with a car. Her husband died on the way to hospital.

BATHING ACCIDENTS

SEVERAL PERSONS DROWNED

Three members of picnic parties were drowned while bathing on the Welsh coast on Saturday. A woman and boy belonging to the same party disappeared in the sea between Abergele and the village of Llandulas, Denbighshire. They were Miss Florence Garland (43), schoolmistress, of Hawarden County School, Flintshire, whose home address was in Copthorne Drive, Shrewsbury, and Garreth Vivian Roberts (12), son of Mr. Fred Roberts, Chemistry Master of Hawarden County School, who lives at Ewloe Green, near Chester.

The woman's body was recovered on Saturday night, but the boy's body is still missing.

Phyllis Bowen (9), of Yeo street, Resolven, Neath, Glamorgan, who went for a bathe while with a picnic party at Jersey beach, between Neath and Swansea, on Saturday, was lost in the sea.

A number of men made efforts to find her, but without success. Her body was recovered two hours later.

MAN LOST NEAR SWANSEA

William Hockley (27), of Western road, Pontardawe, Glamorgan, was drowned at Caswell Bay, near Swansea, on Saturday, and the body has not yet been recovered.

Hockley and two young men named Davies were bathing when all three got into difficulties. The two men Davies were rescued with difficulty by beach attendants, but it was not known for an hour that Hockley was missing. Then efforts were made for some hours to recover his body.

RESCUED WOMAN DIES

When bathing from Weston Shore, Southampton, yesterday, Mrs. Jessie Perriment, aged 48, of Acacia road, Merry Oak, Southampton, got into difficulties. Her husband and other people went to her assistance, and she was taken from the water, but she died shortly after reaching hospital.

BROTHERS DROWNED

Two brothers, Evan Pugh, aged 21, an employé under the Forestry Commission, and Emlyn Pugh (19), a grocery assistant at Barmouth, were drowned in the River Mawddach, near Dolgelly, Merioneth, yesterday.

Although they were not able to swim, they entered the water, as the weather was sultry.

They were missed when clothing was found on the rocks, and after dragging by police and sailors, the body of Evan was found in a deep whirlpool in the estuary. His brother's body was recovered later.

BOY DROWNED IN MILL-POND

While bathing yesterday at Cleeve Prior, the popular Worcester bathing place on the River Avon, Eddie Phillips, a fifteen-year-old boy, of Park road, Moseley, Birmingham, got out of his depth, and was drowned.

With another Birmingham boy, Derek Francis (12), of Alcester road, he had cycled to Cleeve Prior, and joined the parties of bathers at the mill-pond.

Phillips could swim a little, but when he got out of his depth and sank he nearly pulled Francis, who could not swim, down with him. Francis managed to scramble to the side, where he raised the alarm.

Efforts were made to bring Phillips to the surface, and George Edmunds, of Small Heath, Birmingham, dived several times at the spot, and eventually recovered the body from twelve feet of water.

TRAPPED IN A BURNING HOUSE

WOMAN RESCUED WITH A DERRICK

A man and a woman were trapped and overcome by smoke and a York railway worker, who helped to rescue them, was burned in a fire which broke out yesterday at the shop of Mr. Joe Beswick, a fish frier, of Kirkgate, Leeds.

Police Constable Laycock and Police Constable Bullock were in Kirkgate when Evelyn May Almond, a forty-year-old woman living above the shop, opened a bedroom window and shouted "Fire." The police officers climbed up a fall pipe and brought Beswick out of the house in a state of collapse.

Charles Henderson, a railway foreman on the London and North-Eastern Railway, of Barlow street, York, who was in the vicinity, assisted to get Almond from the house by means of a tramway derrick which was passing, and in doing so he was burned about the hands.

The man and woman recovered when they got outside into the air, and the Leeds City Fire Brigade quickly extinguished the flames.

RICHARD STRAUSS RESIGNS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Saturday.

Dr. Richard Strauss, the composer, today resigned the Presidency of the Reich Chamber of Culture and Chairmanship of the Corporation of German Composers. Dr. Goebbels, the Minister of Propaganda, has accepted his resignation, which is officially attributed to the composer's age—he was seventy-one a month ago—and his "severely affected health."

It is, however, an open secret that there have been differences between Dr. Goebbels, Dr. Strauss and Dr. Alfred Rosenberg following the world première in Dresden on June 24th of Strauss's new opera, "Die Schweigsame Frau" (the Silent Woman), based on Ben Johnson's "Silent Woman."

The libretto of the opera came from the pen of the Jewish author Stefan Zweig, whom the Nazis had been attacking in virulent fashion.

150 WARSHIPS IN LINE

THE NAVAL REVIEW AT PORTSMOUTH

KING TO LEAD ARMADA TO SEA

THE King, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and the Duke of Kent, will arrive in the royal train at Cosham, on the northern outskirts of Portsmouth, at 5.45 p.m. to-day, in readiness for the great naval review.

The royal party will drive through six miles of gay streets to the dockyard, where they will immediately embark on the royal yacht, Victoria and Albert.

On Tuesday afternoon the King will inspect his fleet, and the climax will be reached on Wednesday morning, when His Majesty will lead this great armada to sea for fleet exercises.

All the vessels of the Home and Mediterranean Fleets were drawn up in lines miles long yesterday, extending from Southsea to Lee-on-Solent. To-day the number of warships will be brought up to 157 by the arrival of the remainder of the Reserve Fleet.

9,000 TROOPS ON PARADE

GREAT SPECTACLE AT ALDERSHOT

The King held a Jubilee review of 9,000 troops of the Aldershot Command at Rushmoor on Saturday. With the King was the Queen and their four sons.

Tens of thousands of people watched the display from tiers of seats in a great semicircle around the emerald arena.

All branches of the Army were represented. Behind the mounted bands of the Queen's Bays, the 3rd Dragoon Guards, the 4th Hussars, and the Royal Artillery, came the tractors of a mechanised unit.

The sabres of the 1st Cavalry Brigade flashed in the sun. Up rolled the Royal Engineers, with ponderous pontoons on tractors and wireless cars.

The bands of the infantry regiments, pipers and fife bands, took their places. It was a triumph of organisation.

Fifty thousand people rose and cheered as the Queen, wearing a Jubilee-blue gown and toque and carrying a blue parasol, reached the ground by car preceded by two khaki-clad motor cyclists.

A few minutes later the King rode into sight—a slight figure in the khaki service uniform of a Field Marshal—with his four sons. A standard bearer, Indian aides-de-camp, military members of the Army Council and equerries completed the Royal cavalcade.

THE MARCH-PAST

The King, on a dark chestnut charger, saluted his Queen. His simple gesture broke the bonds of silence of the crowd. A great wave of applause swept round the arena.

A roll of drums, the National Anthem, and the boom of guns in the distance—and the review had begun.

The King stood on the dais motionless, except when he raised his hand to the salute while the troops swept past him, and the crowd cheered the magnificent spectacle.

The Duke of Connaught, a soldierly figure in khaki, was one of the Royal party. Chelsea pensioners in scarlet coats were in the crowd. Men sat in shirt sleeves. Women pinned newspapers and programmes over their heads.

There was a constant rolling of drums and a constant change of music as the units approached the saluting base and their bands broke into regimental marches.

Mules drawing light artillery howitzers got a special cheer.

The Guards—Grenadiers and Coldstreamers—with their bayonets solid as a bank of steel and arms swinging like pistons went by as though operated by a machine.

When the last of the infantry had gone the arena was filled with the clash and clatter of a mechanised army—huge guns and tanks whose guns swept round in salute.

The review ended with the spectacle of the Brigade of Guards and the colour parties of the infantry regiments moving forward twenty paces in line to the Royal pavilion and giving the Royal salute while the National Anthem was played.

As the cheers died away General Sir John Gathorne-Hardy dismounted to receive the King's congratulations and handshake.

MANIFESTATIONS OF NEO-PAGANISM

SERMON BY BISHOP OF BIRMINGHAM

THE Bishop of Birmingham (Dr. E. W. Barnes), preaching yesterday at the Temple Church, London, dealt with neo-paganism as recently manifested in Germany, Russia and elsewhere.

For two generations before the War, he said, the attitude towards the gospels of men of science and of scholars had been one of perplexity, doubt or definite denial.

"Man must have some religion, and if the historic faith of Christendom can no longer be accepted some alternative must, or, at any rate, will be devised to satisfy deep-seated longings. We may smile at the notion of a German god, but to find God in the greatness of a great nation is not wholly absurd when, after all, we recognise God's presence through the appearance in the world of His attributes of goodness, beauty and truth.

"AWKWARD FACTS"

"Combine such ideas of Pantheism, which is but an exaggeration of the Christian idea of Divine immanence, and we understand that, though Neo-Paganism may be perverse, it is not wholly unreasonable."

Ecclesiastical discretion had too often refused to discuss awkward facts. Christian teachers and leaders must, in the long run, meet the intellectuals of Europe on their own ground, and those who would follow Christ must also be prepared to yield to argument when better than their own.

"At the end of unprejudiced inquiry we must be willing," he declared, "to see what is left of the Gospel, which, in the past, has been good news to so many hundreds of millions of European men and women."

MINISTER ON LAND ANNUITIES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

MALLOW, Sunday.

Speaking here to-day, Dr. Ryan, Minister for Agriculture, said that the land annuities collected by the Government were spent on social services. No outcry was raised when the five million pounds was sent over to John Bull. When the land annuities were not paid the County Council had to strike a higher rate, so that the man who did not pay his annuity was really robbing his honest neighbour who paid.

WALKED STREETS WITH BODY IN BOX

Without the means to pay a fee of ten shillings to bury his dead child, Eric Hatton, an unemployed Cleethorpes (Lincolnshire) man walked about the streets for three hours with the body in a box before he finally obtained the money from the Public Assistance officer.

Mr. J. Scarborough, the Cleethorpes Cemetery Superintendent, said that Hatton was asked for a burial fee and replied that he had no money. "I advised him to go to the Public Assistance officer," said Mr. Scarborough. "He did not ask to leave the box, but, even if he had, I could not have allowed it, as I have permitted such a thing before and then had to find the ten shillings myself."

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy and grouchy. It makes us feel no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless two pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and three-quarters of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carters Brand Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and has bad effects in many people. Ask for Carters Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for —1/3 and 3/-.

FREE STATE METAL TRADES

INCREASE IN VALUE OF PRODUCTION

There was an increase of £155,623 in the total value of goods made and work done in the Free State in the metal trades, excluding engineering, in 1933 as compared with 1932. The census of production for 1933, issued by the Department of Industry and Commerce (Statistical Branch), shows that the gross output was valued at £737,965, and that of 1932 at £582,362

In 1933 there were 2,570 persons engaged in the industry, an increase of 623 persons employed as compared with the previous year, when the figure was 1,947.

The total amount paid to wage-earners in the year 1932 was £194,487, and in 1933 the wages paid amounted to £207,626, or an increase of £13,139.

Tinplate and japanned goods manufactured in 1932 were valued at £106,965. The value of such goods in 1933 was £139,119.

The value of girders, beams, joists and iron and steel work manufacture in 1932 was valued at £62,383, and in 1933 at £99,554. Other iron and steel work manufactured was valued at nearly £100,000 in 1932, while the figure for 1933 increased to £150,509.

Copper articles in 1932 were valued at about £47,000, and in 1933 the figure rose to £57,500. There was an increase of £4,500 in value of lead work done and of about the same amount in brass, bronze and gun-metal manufactures. Metallic bedsteads and gates, railings and fencing materials show declines. Manufactures of precious metals were produced to the value of £25,106 in 1933, showing a decrease in value of over £1,100 as compared with 1932.

The returns of persons employed at mid-October in 1933 show that 471 women and girls and 2,099 men and boys were engaged in the industry.

THE RECRUIT FANCIED

White Clover Best Choice for Welsh Oaks

APART from the Welsh Oaks only moderate horses are concerned with the two meetings scheduled for to-day at Chepstow and Ayr. The Welsh Oaks, which, with its penalties and allowances, has the appearance of a very open handicap, should be a more interesting race from the point of view of backers than the Welsh Derby. If Ankaret is saddled she will have to concede weight all round. She should certainly run well, for she won over the course at the corresponding meeting last year, and is at the top of her form. She won the valuable Coronation Stakes over a mile at Ascot in particularly easy style. The only doubt concerns her stamina. It will be recalled that Quashed ran her out of the Epsom Oaks in the last few strides.

Another who has been doing well recently is Milldoria. She readily accounted for her solitary opponent at Salisbury. Before failing at Ascot she defeated Light Tackle, Golden Scroll and four others over a mile and a half at Lingfield.

A good deal is thought of Irish Lassie II. at home. She has not such a good record as White Clover, whom I prefer. The latter's form at Ascot, where she was third to Theft and Law Court, was a particularly promising effort.

Limace has been showing rare dash in her gallops of late. Sunkiss will be attempting the hardest task of her career; still the form book indicates that she is on the up-grade. A big point in her favour is that she gets a nice allowance from such as Ankaret and Milldoria. Technocracy has disappointed too many times of late for my liking. I should prefer her in handicap company. Papyrette ran extremely well in the Oaks, and, judging by her third to Easton and Almond Hill, is right in form.

No doubt Foxila will win a nice race for Sir Abe Bailey in due course, though I doubt if she will be good enough here. In trying to name the winner I choose from Ankaret, Milldoria, White Clover, and Papyrette. I think will win.

Several of the entries for the Penarth Plate have run well recently. They include Cyclamen, Marmaduke Jinks, Golden Moment, Sweet Polly, and The Recruit. Marmaduke Jinks, third to Law Court at Hurst Park, shows that he is on the up-grade. He looks certain to do well in this company.

THE RECRUIT

should be the best to stand. He would probably have beaten Bekorah at Bath but for swerving. Six furlongs is his ideal distance.

MISS JINKS II.

is fancied for the Wye Valley Plate. She was third to Symphony and Sidley Dee at Folkestone.

NIL NISI

has a great chance at the weights in the Lysaght Plate.

It is not expected that fields will be big at Ayr. G. Armstrong may win the Montrose Handicap with his charge,

JOAN OF ARC.

Eclipse Stakes Scratchings

The Derby winner, Bahram, and his stable companions, Umidwar and Shahali, were scratched at 9 a.m. on Saturday from the Eclipse Stakes at Sandown Park next Friday. It was made known by H.H. the Aga Khan some time ago that Bahram would not contest the Eclipse Stakes, as he is in reserve for the St. Leger.

Autumn's Penalty

By winning the July Stakes at Lingfield Park on Saturday Autumn has incurred a penalty of 7lb. in the Sandown Anniversary Cup, Sandown Park, raising his weight to 9st. 1lb.

G. Richards's Hundredth

Gordon Richards has registered a "century" of winners this season. He gained his hundredth success this year on All Ready in the Wyndclyffe Handicap at Chepstow on Saturday. He has now ridden 1,725 winners since he had his first success in 1921, and has been champion jockey for eight seasons. This year he is already nearly fifty in front of any other jockey. S. Donoghue, who has been riding winners since 1909, has had over 1,750 successes. He was champion jockey on ten occasions between 1914 and 1923.

Caretta Scratched

The scratching of Caretta from all engagements includes the Stewards' Cup at Goodwood. She had been allotted 7st. She has finished her racing career, and is returning forthwith to the National Stud.

Bloodstock for Export

Horoscope, a three years old gelding by Highborn II.—Constellation, and Felland, a three years old gelding by Felstead—Imp, have been sold and have left O. Bell's Lambourn stables for shipment abroad.

H. Wragg's Treble

H. Wragg, the jockey, registered a treble at Hamilton Park on Saturday. His three winners were: Rashiegrain, in the Juvenile Selling Handicap; Sureline, in the Monkland Selling Handicap, and Brief, in the Cambusnethan Plate.

Eclipse Stakes: Windsor Lad and His Rivals: The Claims of Theft and Fair Trial

From Our Travelling Correspondent.
LONDON, Sunday Night.

ONE wonders why it is that there is not a declaration of forfeit for the Eclipse Stakes to be made on the Tuesday in the week before running, which is the procedure now in connection with most races. The Eclipse is to be run at Sandown on Friday next, and as the final declaration of forfeit was on the last Tuesday in March there are still twenty-nine horses left in.

Not many more than a third of these are likely to run. For instance, Lord Astor has four in the race—Adept, Field Trial, Law-Maker and Portfolio. I know that Adept is a certain starter, all being well; but possibly, in view of Field Trial's later engagements, especially the St. Leger, for which he will be a well-fancied candidate, he may not be started.

Then the stable has an eye on the Atlantic Stakes at Liverpool with Portfolio. This is a rich event, though not so valuable as the Eclipse, and there is no Windsor Lad in it, which is a consideration.

The Aga Khan had five engaged, including Bahram, but he, Umidwar and Shahali were taken out yesterday.

Butters's Two Runners

I understand that Frank Butters will start both Theft and Hairan. Lord Derby has two, Bobsleigh and Fairhaven. The former is out of court, and will be for a long time, while Fairhaven is far too slow for the course, where speed is so essential.

The centre of the stage will, of course, be held by Windsor Lad, who will start a strong favourite. It is generally considered that the Derby and St. Leger winner was unlucky in the race last season, and Smirke blames himself for not having ridden one of his best races.

I have not the files available, but if I remember rightly I wrote at the time that Windsor Lad did have bad luck, but that, even if he had a clear run, there would not have been more than a head or a neck in it, and that it would be dangerous to express an opinion which would have won.

A Rival to Windsor Lad

The Beckhampton colt, Fair Trial, is being talked of as one that may beat Windsor Lad with his big allowance in the weights. By Fairway, out of Lady Juror, Fair Trial ran for the first time at Salisbury in May, and at Ascot a month later won the Queen Anne Stakes by three lengths from Solerina, to whom he was giving 10lb. He won, too, with any amount in hand.

Fair Trial may, for all we know, be one of the best three-year-olds of the season, but I submit that his public performances are not sufficient to make him seriously thought of as one that may beat Windsor Lad.

There may be a doubt about his running, as I understand that Gordon Richards has promised to ride Theft if he is not wanted by his own stable. It is Theft that I take more seriously than Fair Trial as a possible rival to Windsor Lad.

H. Wragg's Jockeyship

If Gordon Richards is not available I presume that H. Wragg will have the mount. Wragg has been remarkably successful in the Eclipse, and he rode a brilliant race last year on King Salmon, as he had done a few years earlier on Rustom Pasha.

A great many people have the idea that Theft does not stay a mile and a quarter. Well, there are three turns on this course. Admitting that the run-in is unusually long and that the finish is on the collar, Theft can go round turns well. His speed is terrific, and I should say that in this matter there is little in it between him and Bahram.

At a mile Law Court has again and again proved himself a very smart gelding, and Theft over the Royal Hunt Cup course at Ascot gave him 13lb. and beat him two lengths with supreme ease. Still, if the race is a strongly-run one and it came to a long-drawn-out battle through the last furlong up the hill I think the odds would be on Windsor Lad—a great battler if we have ever seen one.

His Last Appearance

This, it is understood, is to be Windsor Lad's last public appearance, though he is still in the Jockey Club Stakes and other engagements later in the season. I believe his owner would not be averse from sending him to Paris later on in the year if there were any chance of a match with Brantome.

I see, by the way, that there has been much discussion in the French Press between veterinarians and scientists on the subject whether the anti-tetanus injection which Brantome had ten days before he was sent to Ascot had a prejudicial effect on his running in the Gold Cup, and the general opinion is that it had.

After the Injection

A friend of mine who, during the War, was mainly concerned with tetanus and its prevention among Army horses, and has had as much, or more, experience of the subject as any living man, is emphatic on the subject that it is nothing short of madness to run a horse within at least twenty-one days of his being given the injection.

Reverting to Windsor Lad, his breeder, Mr. Dan Sullivan is offering a half-sister to him by Beresford at the Newmarket Sales this week, and he tells me that she is a strikingly good-looking filly. If she pleases the critics I can see furious bidding for her; for the money is about all right for a good one with her pedigree.

This Week's Sales

The sales this week will be confined within two evenings. There is a number of miscellaneous horses in training coming up, and the number of good yearlings will be strictly limited. Mr. Allen Baker is offering two from his Lismacue Stud—colts by Stratford and Prester John.

Michael Beary is offering a Bold Archer colt, and Michael says he is the best-looking yearling that will come into any ring this year.

The brothers Lord Fairhaven and Captain Henry Broughton are offering all the yearlings they have had at their Barton Stud in Suffolk, as they do not intend to race in future.

The Newmarket meeting this week extends over only three days, and it will be nothing like so interesting as that a fortnight ago. There will, however, be some bright features, and I shall look for the first appearance in the Soltykoff Stakes on Tuesday of Bala Hissar, a half-brother by Blandford to Theft.

It was intended the other day that he should make his début here, but, with the going so firm everywhere, there may be a change of plans. He was a particularly good-looking colt when I saw him in the spring.

Making His Debut

St. Magnus, the first foal of that grand little mare, Fair Isle, sister to Fairway, by Sansovino, may make his début here as Tideway waits for the National Breeders' Produce Stakes at Sandown on Saturday.

This will be the most important two-year-old race of the week, as it is the most valuable event of the year for first-season horses.

There will be some smart ones, as usual, in this race, including Maiden Fair (who disappointed a little at Ascot), Golden Martlet, Grimage (the colt by Blenheim out of Bossover), and Blandaine, who is now trained by Cottrill, and is highly thought of. But the one in whose running I shall be most interested is His Grace, who failed so completely in the Coventry Stakes at Ascot.

A trainer told me the other day that, on behalf of a patron, he bid £10,000 for this brother to Blenheim and half-brother to King Salmon when he was a yearling. I had already known that Sir Abe Bailey bid £8,000 for him about the same time, but His Grace was not for sale then; nor is he now.

Bideford Bay's Success

Last week I mentioned here that it would be a curious thing if Bideford Bay, whom Lord Glanely drafted in April, were to win the Welsh St. Leger at his own meeting, Chepstow. Well, Bideford Bay did the unforgiveable thing by winning the Welsh St. Leger yesterday, and fully justified the judgment of Major Sneyd in giving 620 guineas for him on behalf of Mr. A. E. Berry.

Writing on Friday night I mentioned him as being the danger to the obvious favourite, Bunker, who was an odds-on chance. He was more than a danger, for he won by a length and a half and three lengths from Sir Calidore and the favourite.

Probably the curious Chepstow course did not suit a lazy colt like Bunker, who wants a more galloping course. Bunker has won at Newmarket and Newcastle, and it will probably be on courses like these, which need galloping, that we shall see him at his best. Round the turns at Manchester, in the Cup, he was lost.

Everyone had the idea on Saturday morning that a short way to wealth was to back all Gordon Richards's Chepstow mounts in mixed doubles. They did not achieve wealth, but they had a run for their money, as he rode three winners, bringing his total for the season to 101.

Odds-on Winners

His first winner, Coercion, was 5 to 4 on, and so was Avertin. All Ready was more profitable, for she started at 7 to 2, there being three better favourites for the Wyndcliffe Plate, which she won by a length and a half and three lengths from Look and Hot Bun. All Ready is by Press Gang from Ready Response, a mare from whom Mr. John Hartigan bred a very good two-year-old a few years ago.

Richards was third on one of the three runners for the Usk Plate, the Queen Scotia colt, which The Mum won easily for Sir John Grey, who bought the daughter of Apron cheaply at the Dublin Sales.

It was oppressively hot again at Lingfield, where the Great Foal Plate of £1,000 was won by Mr. Robin McAlpine's Desert Night, who easily beat Berkeley Hunt, recently bought out of a selling plate for 1,200 gns., and Squadron Castle.

A Sensational Debut

Desert Night is the colt by Buchan from Polly Flinders, bred by Lieutenant-Colonel Loder, that made such a sensational début at Liverpool, and then won again, but not so easily at Newmarket.

Two failures since had discounted his reputation a little, but he was favourite here and was a good winner, giving 7lb. and 10lb. to the second and third.

Cotoneaster, as I anticipated might be the case, was not started for the July Stakes, in which Mr. Joe Widener's Autumn, with odds of 5 to 1 laid on him, won easily from Timogue.

In the presence of his owner, just arrived from the United States, Mr. D. M. Gant's Stanzo was a clever winner of the Imberhorne Handicap by a neck from Cherry Pie; and Frank Hartigan's Fairyhill proved a disappointing favourite in the Tandridge Court Welter, where he finished fourth, Mr. Gaskell's Vitality winning by half a length from Gloria Mia.

Selections

White Clover goes to Chepstow to-morrow to try in the Welsh Oaks to avenge the defeat of Bunker. She may not beat ANKARET.

Gordon Richards will be expected to win the Penarth Plate on THE RECRUIT. In the Wye Valley Plate I choose MISS JINKS II.

At Ayr, where fields will be small, the Montrose Handicap may be won by JOAN OF ARC, and the Auchincruive Plate by the POMONA FILLY.

A SERIES OF DOUBLES

My Aid Wins the Chief Prize at Leopardstown

CONSIDERING that the programme was not suggestive of racing much above the ordinary the attendance at Leopardstown on Saturday was remarkably good, and there can be no doubt that, as far as the majority of our meetings are concerned, there is every indication of a revival of interest in the sport. The racing, too, turned out much better than was anticipated and winner finding was not the easy matter that it was thought would be the case. Double events featured the afternoon's sport, the jockeys M. Wing and J. Moylan each steering home two winners, while H. I. Ussher, the Brackenstown trainer saddled two winners, one of them being My Aid, who captured the principal two years old event.

SOLD AT BALLSBRIDGE

Harmachis was saddled for the Killiney Plate instead of a minor race early in the day, so that we had a field of four for this £200 event. My Aid, who is a daughter of Knight of the Garter, had run on the previous Saturday at Baldoyle in the race won by Miss Allen. She was now best fancied of the quartette and scored a very comfortable win from Harmachis and Hachette. The winner was bred by Mr. James Finnegan and bought at the Horse Show sales by Mr. V. Smith for 140 guineas.

The other Brackenstown score was by The Ace, who on the Wednesday previous got badly away from the post in the race won by Silverdale. He was not too well away on this occasion either, but making up the lost ground gradually on the outside of the course he overhauled the leaders one by one to eventually win in comfortable style from Greek Jim and Rhine Wine, the former of this pair having been prominent for a long way.

AN AMERICAN WIN

The Dun Laoghaire Plate for maiden two years old was won by Lalique, a daughter of Vesington Star, trained by J. Ruttle, who always had the measure of Marjorie's Pet and the other runners. She is owned by Mrs. Laurence Hastings, an American lady who with her husband have been living in Limerick for the past couple of seasons for the hunting.

M. Wing, whose handling of two years old has earned a reputation for him, rode the winner, and he was to the fore again when the Heath trained Diligent Girl beat the favourite, Rahab, and others in the Three Rock Plate. Rahab finished second, a position he also filled behind Culleen's Actress at the Phœnix Park three days earlier.

A SURPRISE CHALLENGE

There were five runners for the Sandyford Steeplechase and backers of Wicklow Wrinkle were on the best of terms with themselves when Mr. Mullee's horse landed over the last fence with a clear lead of Norman Glory, who was being hard ridden. The race looked as good as won when Norman Glory threw out a surprise challenge and actually drew past to win by a length to the consternation of supporters of the favourite. Careful Prince, one of the outsiders of the party of six runners for the amateur riders' race gave Mr. J. Woods an easy winning ride. Details:—

Daily Sketch Double — The Recruit and Eager Gal.

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY

B. Jarvis will supply the majority of our runners at Chepstow. Although Limace is fit and well I do not think her capable of beating for the Welsh Oaks, and so well is Lord Derby's filly at present that I regard her as holding an excellent winning chance.

WHITE CLOVER (nap)

CYCLAMEN

should give a forward display in the Penarth Maiden Plate, and so should

PAROLE

for the Wye Valley Maiden Plate. Their stable companion, who is leniently weighted in the Lysaght Handicap, should prove difficult to beat.

NIL NISI,

At Ayr

THE HUZZY

should win the Montrose Handicap.

STEDMAN'S SUCCESSES

New Zealander Takes Three Titles at Fitzwilliam

A WEEK of perfect weather at Fitzwilliam ended on Saturday with a very large crowd watching the finals of the Irish championships. Unfortunately, the men's singles proved a disappointment, and none of the other matches came up to the standard of some previous finals. The best and most consistent player of the week, A. C. Stedman, won three titles, and Miss Chuter added the mixed doubles to her singles cup gained on Friday. She was the best and most attractive to watch of the women, but she and Miss Cunningham had to take second place in the women's doubles to Miss Hilda Wallis and Miss Norma Stoker, a most unexpected and welcome all-Irish success.

C. E. Malfroy's falling-off since last year is reflected in the fact that he failed to take a set off A. C. Stedman in the singles, while he and Miss Cunningham were out-played by Stedman and Miss Chuter in the mixed, in which game Malfroy is usually on the winning side. He never looked a winner of the singles, his mixture of spin and chop and flat drives having no effect on Stedman, who drove his way serenely to the easiest of victories. Forehand cross-cut drives, taken very early, and a perfect control of his passing shots were the features of Stedman's game, and he made few mistakes in the three sets. Pulled back from 5-3 to 5-all in the first set, he replied by taking the next two games, and there was no fight afterwards, his ground shots being struck with firmness that Malfroy's lacked.

LOBBING PAYS

Persistent good-length lobbing will always worry players who are not first class overhead, and Miss Wallis's skill with this shot enabled herself and Miss Stokes to beat the English girls after two close sets. If not as severe on the drive as in her best days, Miss Wallis was as steady as a rock all through, while Miss Stoker's interceptions at the net were well judged. The latter became very uncertain overhead at critical moments, but she had good control off the ground. The lobbing tactics forced the English girls into the 1 up and 1 back game, at which they were never happy, for their lobbing was not nearly as deep, and their smashing was very uncertain. Miss Chuter was the better of the two, but Miss Cunningham struck a good patch in the second set, and when they led 4-2 and 5-4 she and her partner looked possible winners, but they were beaten in the next three games after some lengthy rallies.

It was inevitable that the New Zealanders would take the men's doubles, for R. F. Egan had never played in tennis of this class, but the first two sets were interesting. The young Lansdowne man was hitting his service returns and smashes with quiet efficiency. The case with which his service games were captured, however, rather undermined his confidence, and he was frequently trapped in mid-court with shots to his feet to which he could not reply. Wheatcroft hit some dazzling returns of service and volleys, while he served tremendously hard, but he failed at a critical moment, netting three volleys when he and his partner led 5-3 and 30-love in the second set. It was the only service game he had lost up to that point.

With Malfroy showing something like his best form, the first set of the mixed doubles produced some lively play, but again he was fighting a losing battle. Miss Chuter was stronger than Miss Cunningham, and Stedman's well-directed drives frequently left his opponents helpless at the net. Results:—

GERMANY TO MEET U.S.A.

At Prague yesterday Germany qualified to meet the United States in the inter-zone final of the Davis Cup by beating Czechoslovakia in the final of the European zone. Each country had won one singles match on Friday and Saturday. In the doubles G. von Cramm and K. Lund (Germany) beat R. Menzel and F. Malacek—6-3, 9-7, 6-4. Yesterday G. von Cramm put his country in the next round by beating R. Menzel in the singles by 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 5-7, 6-1

YACHTING

D.B.S.C. AND R.A.Y.C. EVENTS FALL THROUGH

Thanks to the light and uncertain S.E breeze, added to the complication of a flood tide running like a mill race, racing broke up in Dublin Bay on Saturday. Two races were saved out of the wreckage of fixtures—viz., those of the Water Wags and of the Unclassified Boats—but the sail-boats and yachts competing in them were drifting rather than sailing when they came in to the finish. Two other races—a D.B.S.C. match for 21-Footers and a R.A.Y.C. match for 17-Footers—collapsed altogether, the yachts in them being unable to make any headway when they left harbour on their second round.

Had there been no second round, both these races would have been finished, and Innisfallen would have won the 21-Footers' match, and Silver Moon the 17-Footers' match, with the greatest ease in each case.

Is it not time for the Committees of both clubs to realise that their exising courses and governing ideas are based upon a starting and finishing line between the pier-heads—not one inside harbour, as at present? By all means bring the yachts into harbour so that the public can see them finishing their races, but make some revision of their courses and revise or fix time limits, so that the position can be clear to all.

COQUETTE'S EASY WIN

A glance at the finishing times brings out at once what this race was like. Coquette drew away from the start (3.30 p.m.) and gave no other boat a look-in. The real crux in the race was making and rounding the Bullock mark in the teeth of the flood tide. Finish:—

BONITA SCORES AGAIN

In weather like that of Saturday no human handicap could hope to bring the units in the Unclassified Boats on an equality. Mercia, Bonita, Mavis, Punctilio and Nepenthe started. Mercia and Nepenthe gave up. On the "time on time handicap" Bonita had over 16m. to spare for first prize from Punctilio. Finish:—

THE CLUB SIDE WELL ON TOP

GOOD SHOOTING AGAINST QUIDNUNCS

A.I.P.C. .... 6 QUIDNUNCS 3

The All-Ireland Polo Club mean to have their very best side out against the England team during Horse Show Week, and with this end in view a team representing the Club was opposed to Quidnuncs at the Nine Acres, Phœnix Park, on Saturday. The A.I.P.C. side, while still showing room for improvement, were on top and fully deserved their 6-3 victory.

A.I.P.C. hit over their opponents' line thirteen times against five, and it shows good marksmanship that six of the thirteen shots brought goals. Messrs. J. Leonard and C. B. Martin were sound at Numbers 1 and 2 respectively, and they gave Major Kirkwood, the Quidnuncs back, a busy afternoon. Major O'Rorke (No. 3) and Mr. J. Martin (back) were always up to help to push home the A.I.P.C. attack.

Major Kirkwood, taking part in his first match for some weeks, showed glimpses of his splendid form, but he had often more than one man's work to do owing to the hard riding of the opposite Numbers 1 and 2. As a combination A.I.P.C. were better balanced and their backing up was splendid.

Quidnuncs were unlucky not to have an early lead when twice Mr. Johnson shot hard for goal, but each time the ball hit a pony and was cleared. Then Major O'Rorke came through from midfield, and Mr. C. Martin finished the movement by giving A.I.P.C. a lead, which Major O'Rorke increased just before the bell.

At the start of the second chukkar Major Kirkwood shot inches wide from a free hit at an open goal awarded for a dangerous cross, but soon after this Mr. Nutting hit through for Quidnuncs. Mr. J. Martin, however, regained A.I.P.C.'s two-goal lead.

There was some good riding-off in the third period, but still the Club side dominated, and Mr. J. Martin and Major O'Rorke added further goals to give them a 5-1 lead. Mr. C. Martin made the total six early in the final chukkar, but finishing strongly Quidnuncs reduced their deficit with goals from Mr. Phibbs and Mr. Johnson.

A.I.P.C.—Mr. J. A. Leonard, Mr. C. B. Martin, Major J. O'Rorke, Mr. J. Martin.

Quidnuncs—Mr. D. W. Phibbs (3 chukkars), Mr. E. C. Nutting (3), Mr. B. Best (2), Mr. J. Johnson (4), Major T. W. Kirkwood (4).

Umpire—Mr. W. Magee.

WATER POLO

IRELAND'S GOOD SHOW AT NEATH

WALES .... 5 IRELAND 3

Wales defeated Ireland by 5 goals to 3 at Neath on Saturday after the score had been 1-1 at half-time. Ireland did nearly all the attacking in the first half, but most of their attempts failed, although they opened the scoring through Fletcher. Soon afterwards Wales equalised with a score by Griffiths, and the sides were level at the interval.

On the resumption Ireland again took the lead through Fletcher, but Woodward equalised, and then put the home country ahead. Street and Freeguard obtained further goals for Wales, and just before time McCorry, the Irish captain, scored with a long shot.

Wales—J. H. Anderson, A. V. Lyle, L. Palmer, W. G. Freeguard, A. H. Griffiths, K. Street, A Woodward (captain).

Ireland—J. K. Ward, A. H. Daniels, H. Cowan, M. O'Mahoney, C. Major, M. D. Fletcher, O. McCorry (captain).

Nobody expected Ireland to beat Wales, and many thought the margin of goals in favour of the Principality would be much greater than it was. Further trials are, I understand, writes our Special Correspondent, arranged before the team to play Scotland on next Saturday week at Blackrock is selected; but, on the showing at Neath, one or two changes only may be necessary.

CLONTARF'S DOUBLE

At Blackrock on Saturday Clontarf repeated their victories over the senior and junior teams of Pembroke gained earlier in the season, but in neither case was their superiority so marked. Dublin beat Dublin University in a game in which eleven goals were scored. Results:—

Clontarf 1, Pembroke 0.
Dublin 7, Dublin University 4.
Clontarf 2nd 3, Pembroke 2nd 1.

SWIMMING

ENGLAND OUT FOR 216

Vincent Proves an Efficient Substitute for Balaskas

ENGLAND'S Test team, which, owing to the withdrawal through injuries or illness of four chosen players, became more or less a makeshift combination, were dismissed for 216 runs by South Africa at Leeds on Saturday. Four batsmen between them scored 181 of the runs, and only Hammond and a last-minute choice in Arthur Mitchell, of Yorkshire, showed the kind of batting looked for from a side gaining first innings on a hard and true pitch.

Just as Balaskas baffled the English batsmen at Lord's, so Vincent, who replaced the injured Greek, was a source of trouble in this third Test of the series, and Langton swung the new ball very effectively.

South Africa, scoring 26 for the loss of Mitchell, finished 190 runs behind, with nine wickets to fall. The official attendance was returned at 23,000, the number paying being 16,918, and the receipts £2,060 2s. 6d.

HAMMOND AT LAST

Mitchell was brought into the England side when Leyland was forced to withdraw owing to lumbago. J. C. Clay was left out, Langridge becoming twelfth man. When Mitchell went to the crease three England batsmen had gone for 78. These were Wyatt, who was caught behind the wicket off a good length out-swinger—the third ball bowled—before a run was scored, Barber and Denis Smith.

Before cocking up a ball to silly mid-on at 52, Barber timed some hits to leg with pleasing accuracy, and Smith, third out, batted ninety minutes with good style, much assurance and skilful execution of the square cut. A rather careless stroke at a ball that "popped" finished his innings. Apparently he touched this delivery with the back of his bat before South Africa's wicket-keeper caught it neatly.

With Hammond and Mitchell together England played themselves into a much better position, and Hammond, who had not hit a score of even 50 in Test cricket in England since 1931, at last did something to silence his many critics. There were no fieldsmen close to the wicket when Hammond was batting in quite his best style. Driving hard on either side of the wicket to get most of the 63 runs he scored in an hour and fifty minutes, Hammond more than once played back to straight drive the medium pace bowling. He and Mitchell in eighty minutes put on 69 for the fourth wicket. Playing Vincent with his pads, Hammond, who hit five 4's, was l.b.w. at 147, and two more wickets fell after 30 more runs were added.

Hardstaff, very careful for forty minutes, gave Vincent a low return, which was held, and Ames was bowled off his pads first ball. Vincent, who replaced the injured Balaskas—Viljoen for Nourse was South Africa's only other change from the Lord's Test—bowled with splendid length, flighted and spun the ball cleverly. Taking four wickets in twenty-five overs and five balls for 28 runs, he kept on unchanged from a quarter to one, with the total 62, until the tea interval, when England's score stood at 210 for seven wickets. Against such steady bowling England could never score at the quick rate considered necessary to win a Test in three days.

MITCHELL'S GOOD WORK

Mitchell, well though he served England in difficult circumstances, never revealed any desire to take risks, and in consequence was mildly "barracked." All the same, he batted with absolute soundness, though he might have been run out when 21 had not Langton returned the ball wildly to Cameron.

Eighth out at 215, when he snicked a ball swinging away outside the off stump, Mitchell defied South Africa over three hours. The salient feature of his innings was his unwearying and watchful defence, but he made some capital strokes to the on, driving hard a few times, but generally using a judiciously placed push stroke. He also cut well and hit five fours.

After the Hammond-Mitchell stand was broken the six remaining wickets fell for 69 runs, just the number these two added, England being out at twenty minutes past five for 216. They occupied the wicket for four and three-quarter hours. Cameron, who during the pre-lunch cricket was struck over the eye by the ball, made three catches behind the wicket.

Very anxious to prevent any England success during the remaining forty-five minutes, Siedle and Mitchell batted with extreme care. Hammond, relieving Nichols with 15 scored, all but bowled Mitchell first delivery, and at 21 he had that batsman l.b.w. under the new rule. In their short spell of fielding the Englishmen, especially Mitchell at cover, gave nothing away.

The weather was uncomfortably hot all the day, during which no more than 242 runs were scored.

PEMBROKE'S FINE VICTORY

Pembroke's win by the big margin of seven wickets over Phœnix in the Park on Saturday virtually assures Leinster of the League championship for yet another season. Incidentally it lends additional interest to the final of the Senior Challenge Cup. The match stressed the fact that, on his day, T. F. Ward, the Pembroke fast bowler, is a match winner in himself. Coming on a second time when the score was 60 for 2, he bowled at a fine pace and with a disconcerting swing to finish up with the fine analysis of 7 for 63, and the last six wickets fell for 30 runs.

The Pembroke fielding was particularly keen, and T. C. Williams brought off four clever catches in the slips.

Pembroke lost A. G. Murray at 11, but A. G. Trapnell and G. C. Erskine took the score to 71 for the second wicket, and T. C. Williams, who has been getting a lot of runs of late, came along to score rapidly by well-timed straight and cover drives, and the runs were got without further loss.

Leinster had another easy win when they defeated Civil Service by 175 runs with 6 wickets to spare. Against the unchanged attack of J. R. Graham and E. A. Ingram Civil Service were dismissed in an hour for 55 runs. J. R. Hanby kept wicket splendidly and was responsible for the dismissal of five batsmen.

F. G. Connell and E. A. Ingram put on 151 for the opening Leinster partnership. Connell batted in his usual forceful fashion and hit fourteen boundaries, while Ingram, who just got the century, gave a faultless display, and among his hits were two sixes and thirteen fours.

Merrion defeated Y.M.C.A. in the Senior League at Anglesea road by five wickets and 31 runs. Y.M.C.A. lost half their wickets for 27 runs, but R. McKee, 28 (six 4's), and C. Colter, a St. Andrew's schoolboy, made a stand and put on 27 for the sixth, and Colter and Hussey added 36 for the seventh. J. A. O'Donnell and K. Dempsey gave Merrion a good start and put up 50 for the first wicket.

Collegians beat Clontarf by 3 runs at Castle avenue, where scoring was on the low side. For the visitors, Glasgow had the fine analysis of five wickets for 19.

ULSTER SENIOR LEAGUE MATCHES

Three Ulster Senior League matches were played on Saturday, two in Belfast and the other in Lurgan. Lurgan and Downpatrick are the bottom teams. The home team won in each. Lurgan, the home side after scoring 136 (J. Leathem 37) got rid of Downpatrick for 48, H. Campbell taking six wickets for 17.

The leaders, Woodvale, increased their percentage at the expense of North Down, last year's champions, dismissing them for 85. Woodvale scored 107 for 7 wickets. Cliftonville disposed of Armagh for 88, and replied with 90 for four.

The Cheshire Wayfarers, who included J. C. Heaton, the English Rugby three-quarter, won an exciting friendly game against North of Ireland at Ormeau. North declared at 223 for 7 (R. J. Walker 93 and J. G. Cook 52). Heaton, who had a number of "lives," scored 88 for Cheshire, who won on time.

AN EXCELLENT INNINGS BY E. A. INGRAM

Leinster defeated Halverstown at Rathmines yesterday by 111 runs. Batting first they had nine wickets down for 141, when E. A. Ingram, coming in last man, put on 88 with F. Scott, and was not out for 72, hitting eleven 4's. The innings realised 229 in two hours and a half.

Halverstown were out in an hour and three-quarters for 118. J. Brennan scored 28, hitting a 6 and three 4's; P. Boland got 27, and P. Lawlor 18. J. Doyle took four wickets for 36.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING

THE RUPTURE COMPLETE

B. J. Donnelly Not Allowed to Start at Manchester

B. J. Donnelly, the Irish racing cyclist, who a few weeks ago won the five miles grass championship of England at Bristol, was an entrant for the sports of the Manchester Wheelers on Saturday last. His entry was accepted over a week previously, but he was not allowed to start. No intimation of the intended prohibition was given to him up to the time he left Dublin.

The incident may be regarded as the first result of the break-off of relations between the N.A.C.A. (I.) and the N.C.U. of England, and also between the N.A.C.A. and the Union Cycliste Internationale.

The decision of the N.A.C.A. to exercise a cycling jurisdiction in Northern Ireland made this rupture almost inevitable. It was made a fact by the receipt by the N.A.C.A. of a letter from the N.C.U. That letter was published in our issue of Saturday. It asked the Irish body to take it "as final notice that no N.C.U. rider will in future be permitted to compete under your rules; neither will any N.A.C.A. rider be allowed to compete under N.C.U. rules." The letter also informed the N.A.C.A. that the N.C.U. intended to ask the U.C.I. to disaffiliate the N.A.C.A. at its forthcoming congress in Brussels.

UNDER DURESS

Interviewed yesterday by the Special Cycling Correspondent of the Irish Times, a prominent official of the N.A.C.A. stated, in reply to a question as to what step that body was likely to take as a reply to the N.C.U. letter, that the foundation of all international relationships was that each country should be recognised as the supreme governing body within its own territory, and that the N.A.C.A. was recognised by the International Union as the governing body of cycling within the political boundaries of the Free State, and that Northern Ireland and Great Britain came under the jurisdiction of the N.C.U.

While the N.A.C.A. accepted with reluctance and under duress the decision of the U.C.I. limiting its territory to the political boundaries of the Irish Free State, it felt it should have the support of the international body in maintaining its rights and privileges.

The governing bodies of the sport in the Irish Free State, on the one hand, and of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, on the other, stood in precisely the same position. Both were affiliated to the international body, and each agreed to recognise the licences issued by the governing bodies of all countries affiliated to the International Union.

THE ZURICH CONGRESS

The disagreement between the English and Irish Associations as to which should be the governing body of the sport in Northern Ireland was settled by the Zurich Congress of the U.C.I. in 1930. Its decision was that the N.A.C.A. jurisdiction should not extend outside the Irish Free State. Against that decision the N.A.C.A. appealed to the Congress of the following year at Copenhagen. Its delegates were told that there was no appeal from the decision of an international court, and the N.A.C.A., in Congress, subsequently agreed to recognise the international decision. Since that time the relations between the English and Irish Associations might be described as official rather than friendly, not to say harmonious.

The official of the Association whom our Correspondent interviewed stated that it was improbable that the N.A.C.A. would invoke the aid of the international body in maintaining the position to which it believed it was entitled under the international rules. He based this opinion on two grounds: (1) that the N.A.C.A. had decided definitely to defy the ruling of the international body, and had done so with the full knowledge that its suspension would follow as a matter of course; and (2) that the N.A.C.A. could not defy the international association, and at the same time ask its aid to maintain its rights.

It was pointed out to our Correspondent that, while the Central Cycling Council had instructed its delegate to "ask" for an all-Ireland jurisdiction, the Association, as a whole (and it was emphasised that it is the Association as a whole which is affiliated to the U.C.I.) had notified that body of its intention to "exercise" an all-Ireland jurisdiction.

JACK LOVELOCK DEFEATED

The defeat of Jack Lovelock, universally acclaimed the world's greatest mile runner, overshadowed everything else at the Amateur Athletic Association's championships at the White City, London, on Saturday. After his triumph in the United States against Glen Cunningham and Bill Bonthron, Lovelock's retention of his mile title was looked upon as one of the biggest certainties of the meeting. The New Zealander, however, was surprised by S. C. Wooderson, who won by three yards in the comparatively slow time of 4 minutes 17 2-5 seconds.

The New Zealander's overthrow provided a thrill for a great crowd of 50,000 people. P. D. Ward (Achilles) cut out a fast pace, covering the first quarter mile in 51 1-5 seconds, and the half mile in 2 minutes 64-5 seconds. Lovelock was lying second ten yards in arrears. Lovelock went into the lead at the three-quarter stage, which was reached in 3 minutes 15 1-5 seconds, but, before they reached the first bend, Wooderson raced to the front, and continued to lead down the back straight, closely followed by Lovelock. The New Zealander made his effort on the last bend and drew level, but in the home straight the Blackheath man came again and forged ahead forty yards from home.

With ten yards to go, Lovelock threw up his head in token of defeat and Wooderson won with greater ease than the three yards' margin suggests.

Keith Brown, the Yale undergraduate, and the only American competing, created a new British record in the pole vault with 13 feet 2 inches, beating by one inch the figures of L. Barnes (U.S.A.) at Stamford Bridge in 1928. Two men beat the British record in the discus event. H. Andersson (Sweden) and N. Syllas (Greece) surpassing the 157 feet 9½ inches of J. Noel (France) in 1933.

D. O. Finlay, of the Royal Air Force, gained his fourth successive victory in the high hurdles—a feat not equalled for the last thirty years. Details:—

BOXING

PETERSEN MAY FIGHT FOR CRUISER TITLE

Mr. Syd Hulls, the Wembley Stadium match-maker, has left for New York, with the object of making arrangements for a world's light heavy-weight championship contest at Wembley between Bob Olin, the American holder, and Jack Petersen, the British heavy-weight champion. The match will probably take place in the open air some time during the first two weeks of September.

The holder of the British light heavy-weight title is Eddie Phillips, of Bow. Phillips and Len Harvey, the former heavy weight champion, are to meet shortly for the right to challenge Petersen for the heavy-weight title.

THIL BEATS TUNERO

Marcel Thil retained his world's middleweight championship by outpointing Kid Tunero, the Cuban, over fifteen rounds at Marseilles, yesterday. Thil dominated the fight throughout the first thirteen rounds, piling up points, while Tunero tried to keep him at a distance. In the fourteenth round Tunero accepted battle, and some sharp exchanges ensued. In the last round Thil landed a series of fierce right hooks, and Tunero finished in a groggy condition. Thil also was tired.

IRISH ROAD CLUB TRIAL

In sweltering weather, the twelve hours' time trial of the Southern Centre of the Irish Road Club for the Finn Challenge Cup was held yesterday. The trial proved disappointing, as the field was small, and P. Brady, the scratchman, and J. J. Killean receiving three miles, retired early in the day. The best performance was that of P. Deegan, who covered approximately 200 miles, and a little behind him was C. McQueen. Both these riders received fifteen miles' start, and should be first and second on the handicap. T. Bell and J. Hurley, on a tandem, were about five miles ahead of the leading single, but they were not eligible for the handicap.

STAGGERS (Continued).

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

In very hot sunny weather, some shelter should be provided for the ducklings, as they are very susceptible to heat. Also remember to always see that they have a dry bed to lie on at night, for nothing is so injurious to the health of ducks as damp litter or cold floors. Keep their houses clean and dry, and, this done, you need not be too particular about the type of house, provided, of course, that it does not let in the rain.
